ITALIANS ATTACK MALTA

SHIPS, PLANES BATTLE BRITISH

BELGRADE, June 11 (INS)—Supported by warships, Italian planes attacked the British naval base of Malta today, according to reports to the Belgrade newspaper Vreme. A gigantic sea and air battle developed, the paper said.

Aerial bombs and naval shells were hurled against the island's formidable fortifications, Vreme said. British ships and guns returned the fire, and planes of the Royal Air Force stationed at Malta also went into action against the attackers, the newspaper declared.

BERLIN CLAIMS 2 FRENCH ARMIES ARE 'DESTROYED'

"Destruction" of two entire French armies in the great battle for Paris was reported by informed sources in Berlin today who said Hitler's mechanized columns were speeding southward to slice France in half and meet Italian troops from the east.

Nazis, according to Associated Press dispatches, estimated the two French armies comprised between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 men—apparently an extremely high figure, since the whole mobilized strength of France has been reported not much more than 5,000,000.

PRINCESS JULIANA, DAUGHTER BEATRIX
Crown Princess Arrives in Canada with Children

Only 1,500,000 French troops were believed engaged in the battle of France.

There was no hint of any catastrophic slaughter in dispatches from either Paris or London. Both Allied capitals, in fact, have told of preponderantly huge German losses.

The French high command reported that Gen. Weygand's French armies had stemmed a tempestuous Nazi "scythe" attack aimed at seizing the French capital from the rear, while Italy still masked her plan of attack as a full military partner of German.

"On the Alps front, our troops are in position and have not been attacked," said the French communique, referring to the Italian front.

At dawn, the beleaguered French capital presented a weird, Dantesque appearance as acrid smoke from fires set by German incendiary bombs

JULIANA, 2 BABIES ARRIVE IN CANADA

OTTAWA, June 11 (AP)—Princess Juliana of the Netherlands and her two infant children, refugees from war-torn Europe, arrived in Halifax today from England.

Announcement of the safe arrival of the crown princess, heiress apparent to the Dutch throne, and her party was made here by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Princess Juliana and her daughters, Beatrix, 2, and Irene, 9 months, crossed the Atlantic ocean in a Netherlands warship.

UNDER SECRET ORDERS

Arrangements for the royal arrival had been kept secret. It was announced that the warship could not wireless position and progress because of the dangers of war.

The announcement said the crown princess had been invited by Lord Athlone, new Governor-General of Canada, to visit him at the government house here. The royal party will not come to Ottawa, however, until after the arrival in Canada of the Governor-General, expected soon.

Her royal highness was attended by Baroness Veyrum, Baroness Roell and Rear Admiral Baron and Baroness de vos van Steenwyk.

GREETED AT HALIFAX

They were welcomed at Halifax by Lieut.-Gov. F. F. Mathers of Nova Scotia, Commander Edson Sherwood, representing the government house, and W. H. Measures of the external affairs department.

The Netherlands minister to Canada, F. E. H. Groneman, also was on hand to greet the royal party, which fled to England to escape the German invasion of Holland.

It was understood here the party would go to Quebec and remain until the Governor-General arrives.

The government house already has been made ready to receive its visitors. The limestone mansion, set on the banks of the Ottawa river amid rolling lawns and gardens, will provide them with a quiet retreat, shut off even from city traffic by a high iron fence.

Stocks Show Recovery Trend

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — The stock market today shook off its nervousness resulting from the Italian war plunge and leading issues rallied $1 to $3 a share at the best.

The comeback was relatively slow, however, and, near midday, top marks were reduced in most cases.

Steels, motors, coppers and aircrafts, main beneficiaries of the Administration's proposed rearmament spending, were out in front.

Prominent on the upswing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, National Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Republic Steel, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Lockheed, duPont, Loft, Chrysler, General Motors, Willys-Overland, Standard Oil of N. J., Ex-Cell-O Corp., Anaconda, Kennecott and American Smelting.

Bonds and commodities were a shade uneven. "Free" sterling and the French franc pushed higher.

BULLETINS

LONDON, June 11 (INS) — Great Britain today closed the Suez Canal, vital link between England and her far-flung colonies and one of the chief wartime goals of Premier Mussolini.

BERLIN, June 11 (AP)—The German high command announced today that one Allied cruiser and four transports were bombed so seriously "in the northernmost North Atlantic" that "the majority of these ships were burned out."

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—King George today received Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner, in audience at Buckingham palace in connection with Canada's declaration of war on Italy.

ALGIERS, June 11 (AP)—The commander-in-chief of the French forces in North Africa warned the substantial Italian population of French possessions in Africa today that they face punishment "without mercy" if they act against the Allied cause.

LONDON, June 11 (INS)—Members of various diplomatic corps fleeing Paris have reached their destinations safely after being bombed from the air during their journey, it was stated in a Reuter dispatch from Paris today.

CANBERRA, Austral., June 11 (AP)—About 1000 Italians had been arrested in various parts of Australia up to noon yesterday, according to an estimate made here.

ROME, June 11 (AP)—Count Ciano, Italian foreign minister, left Rome immediately after a cabinet meeting today to take command of his air corps squadron.

BASEL, Switzerland, June 11 (INS)—Heavy gunfire was heard along the southern sections of the Maginot line today. Two fires, one of them extensive, were seen on the German side of the Rhine.

LONDON, June 11 (INS)—Virtually the entire Italian naval fleet is now in the Mediterranean sea, it was stated authoritatively in London today.

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, June 11 (AP)—The Union of South Africa announced today that it was severing diplomatic relations with Italy.

GIBRALTAR, June 11 (AP)—British sources said today that Italian crews attempted yesterday to scuttle six of their ships in Gibraltar harbor. British naval units reached them in time to beach most of them. One remained afloat, undamaged.

Italy Moves for Quick Death Blow To Allies; Il Duce Names Aides

ROME, June 11 (AP)—Italy marshalled all her imperial resources for war today as authoritative sources said Fascist troops, naval and air forces "undoubtedly are engaging" the Allies.

Premier Mussolini, as commander of the Italian army, appointed Marshal Pietro Badoglio chief of the general staff in an order of the day calling on the armed forces to conquer.

The other chiefs of staff remain—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani for the army, Admiral Domenico Cavagnari for the navy, and Gen. Francisco Pricolo for aviation.

"By decision of His Majesty, the King-Emperor, I today take over command of the troops operating on all fronts," Mussolini's order said, in announcing appointment of Badoglio and retention of the others.

"From today on weapons and hearts must be solely concentrated on victory."

Earlier, 70-year-old King Victor Emmanuel had issued a proclamation naming Mussolini commander-in-chief and exhorting the Italian troops to victory.—Editor's note.

TAXES FIRST WAR PINCH

New taxes—In some cases increases of 100 per cent—were levied by the cabinet in a one-hour session devoted to war legislation.

Rents, prices and salaries were fixed to suppress speculation, assure stability and guarantee the army's purchasing power.

Supervision or sequestration of industrial and commercial establishments within Italian territory operated or largely controlled by enemy interests was provided by a royal decree issued by the cabinet after its session with Mussolini.

ALL WAGES TAXED

The tax on real estate transfers was "adjusted" to repress hoarding and speculation by investors.

An extraordinary two per cent tax was levied on all wages not subject hitherto to the income tax.

Income taxes were raised 25 to 100 per cent and a special tax of 5 to 20 per cent was imposed on directors of commercial corporations.

Capital punishment was decreed for homicide, robbery, extortion, kidnaping for robbery, rape and all other crimes punishable in peacetime by life imprisonment.

A special tribunal for the defense of the state was set up to try capital cases.

Reservists called to arms, however, would benefit by suspension of penal sentences if they redeemed themselves by "acts of particular valor."

ROME "OPEN CITY"

To make Rome an open city—therefore not legally liable to air attack—the military command and offices of ministries directing the armed forces left the capital for "somewhere else."

A spokesman denied reports Italian troops had invaded France last night, but said he lacked information whether French territory had been entered since midnight.

Residents along Spain's Mediterranean coast reported hearing gunfire which they presumed was from a battle between Italian warplanes and a British warship.

NEARBY MEDITERRANEAN waters in which Italian forces are expected to operate are shown in this map. F. D. Clamps Neutrality Ban On Italy, After His Fiery Talk

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Invoking the neutrality act against Italy, President Roosevelt held out to the embattled Allies today an unqualified pledge of material and moral support from the United States.

PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
As Chief Executive Flayed Mussolini's Act

A series of presidential proclamations last night which named Italy as a belligerent subject to "cash and carry" neutrality restrictions provided the official postscript to a strongly-worded pronouncement on foreign affairs by the Chief Executive.

The Italian government, Mr. Roosevelt said in a historic address at Charlottesville, Va., had rejected the opportunity for peaceful negotiations of its differences with France and England.

"The hand that held the dagger has struck it in the back of its neighbor," he added sternly, interpolating the sentence into his prepared manuscript.

The President delivered his speech to the graduating class of the University of Virginia—which included his son, Franklin, Jr.—but to his immediate audience he added the nation and most of the world by radio.

SPEAKS WITH EMOTION

Speaking forcefully and with unwonted emotion, he declared that the widening theater of Europe's war imperiled this country's way of life.

"Once more," he exclaimed, "the future of the nation, the future

Italy Warlords Leave to Make Rome Open City

ROME, June 11 (AP)—Military authorities left Rome today so as make the Italian capital an open city.

A communique said:

"The military command and the offices of the chiefs of staff of the ministries of the armed forces have left the capital and been transferred somewhere else."

Japs in Warning To Italy

LONDON, July 11 (INS)—A Reuters dispatch from Tokio said today that Japan has requested Italy to pay "serious consideration" to avoidance of untoward incidents between the belligerent powers and China and also between them and Japan.

The dispatch recalled that similar representations were made to Germany, Great Britain and France on Sept. 5.

Threat to Call Guard In Maine Cult Row

WELLS, Me., June 10 — Stirred by a new outbreak of gunplay in the bloody warfare between vigilantes and members of the religious sect, Jehovah's Witnesses, Gov. Lewis O. Barrows today threatened to call out the National Guard.

Advised that two more men were shot in a renewal of mob action against the cult by night-riders, the Governor said the guard would be mustered if state police failed to cope with the disorders.

With a total of four men wounded, seven under arrest and several hurt during stone and gun battles, the Governor ordered extra state police sent to this district, declaring:

"We cannot permit a breakdown of order, and our citizens must be protected from violence."

HEAVY GUARD

Heavily guarded was Alfred County jail, where six sect members were held pending another appearance today before Judge Harold H. Bourne on charges of assault with intent to kill resulting from the shooting of two men Sunday and the burning of the sect's Kennebunk headquarters by a group of 2000 townspeople.

The strong feeling against the cult developed Memorial Day after several members of the sect were alleged to have refused to remove their hats to the flag during the Legion parade.

Latest victims were Jerry Semo, 19, of Kennebunk, and Gerard Dubois of Biddeford, who police said were among a group fired upon by Clarence Grant at his North Berwick, rd. home.

Grant, said to be a member of the sect, came to the door of his home when some of the youths went to seine him, police said.

Grant was taken into custody, while police placed a guard at his home.

RENEW ATTACKS

The night riders, who already had dragged two men from their homes to administer beatings and attacked four others, renewed their attacks upon learning that doctors at Trull Hospital had amputated the leg of Dwight L. Robinson, 24, in an effort to save his life.

Robinson, a shipbuilder, and Fred McDonald, 33, were wounded by a shotgun blast as they stepped from their automobile across the street from headquarters of the Jehovah cult.

The latest shooting came only a few hours after six sect members had pleaded innocent in Kennebunk court to the assault charges.

The six defendants are Edwin Bobb, Stanley S. Madson, Joseph Leathers, Richard Trask, Fayette Snowdale and Benjamin Graves.

Dragged from his home twice within 10 hours, according to police, was Barthelemi Jariz, 49, of Biddeford. Also taken out of his tailor shop and beaten was John Anthony, 54, who later fled to Old Orchard to recuperate from injuries, police said.

Ford's 1000 Planes Day Only as Defense

DETROIT, June 11 (AP)—Mass production of high-speed pursuit planes for the United States Army—at least 1000 a day within six months—not only will be a simple task, Henry Ford said today, but they can be rolled off his assembly lines without interruption to normal output of automobiles.

The 76-year-old Ford made this assertion in an interview after he and his engineers had thoroughly inspected yesterday the tyve of plane the War Department believes would be "mos needed in an emergency." It was a Curtiss P-40, single-engined machine with a tov aveed of 367 miles an hour.

"But remember," said Ford, who has held a lifelong hatred of war, "they are to be for defense only; that's the bargain all the way through."

SON IN WASHINGTON

Ford, disclosing that he had been working on a new airplane motor for some time, indicated that he was ready to get under way as soon as a go-ahead order is received from the War Department. Today Edsel Ford, his son, along with two other members of the Ford staff, were in Washington for further conference with representatives of the War Department.

They left for the capital a few hours after completing their examination of the Army plane sent here at Ford's request.

Ford, who examined the interior of the plane's cockpit and then crawled under the wings for a closer inspection of its construction, smiled confidently as he completed his personal survey and turned the big speedster over to his engineering staff.

It was not a bit more complicated than I anticipated," he said today. "All we have to do is to get the first one right; the remainder of the volume then becomes merely a production job."

WELDING FOR RIVETS

Welding, Ford said, would replace the thousands of rivets in the plane he visions in mass production.

"Also," he added, "we will do all our own tooling for the job, once we get the order to get under way."

Ford recently completed construction of one of the largest and best equipped tool and die plants in the industry within the huge River Rouge plant at Dearborn.

It was suggested to the mass production genius that what he proposed in airplane construction would revolutionize the aviation industry just as assembly line principles did the manufacture of automobiles years ago.

"Of course, it will," Ford replied, "but aviation is coming into its own; it's the safest form of high speed transportation."

Ford said he was convinced that once he started an airplane production line he would "never have to do away with it."

Waltham Woman, 79 Is Burned to Death

A 79-year-old Waltham woman became a living torch when her night clothing caught fire in her home today and she was burned to death despite the valiant efforts of her 72-year-old husband to save her.

According to firemen, Mrs. Etta Frances Doyle arose in the bedroom of her home on Brown st. early this morning to turn off an electric heater.

Her nightgown caught fire. Her husband beat out the flames, burning his own hands, then ran more than a quarter-mile through deserted streets to the Moody st. fire station.

Firemen called Dr. A. P. Blumenthal. He ordered the woman removed to Waltham Hospital, and there she was pronounced dead.

Autoist Near Death In Parked Car Crash

Catapulted from his automobile as it struck two parked machines, Herbert Tower, 20, of Washington st., Quincy, was fighting for his life today in Weymouth Hospital.

Less seriously hurt was Paul Payzant, of Spruce st., Hingham, passenger in the car which police said crashed into a parked truck and automobile in Washington st., Weymouth Landing.

FOE SHIPS GUARDED IN BOSTON

Custom guards and harbor police patrolled Mystic Wharf in Charlestown today as a precautionary measure against the possibility of trouble between the crews of an Italian and a British freighter.

During the night, the police launch McShane made regular trips to the side of the Italian vessel, the freighter Dino, which is tied up only a few feet from the British freighter Salvistan.

Until word of Mussolini's declaration of war was received, the men aboard both ships fraternized occasionally and exchanged jokes.

Harbor officials said Italy's entry into war apparently had not changed the crews' attitudes, as both groups sought to respect rules of a neutral port.

Deck guns on the Salvistan, nevertheless, remained pointed threateningly toward the Italian ship. The two guns, erected on heavy mountings, were installed in England for anti-aircraft protection.

The Dino was scheduled to leave for Genoa as soon as she became loaded with 7200 tons of scrap metal here.

Loading operations halted abruptly during the night, however, soon after the announcement of Mussolini's war decision.

Liner America At Army Base

Largest merchant vessel ever built in the United States, the $17,000,000 America, arrived at Boston today from Newport News, Va., and was drydocked at Boston Army Base preliminary to engaging in trials off Rockland, Me.

The new craft of the Merchant Marine, 723 feet long, attracted a crowd in the vicinity of the Army Base as she nosed up to the Navy drydock under impetus of nine fussily puffing towboats, including one navy tug, the powerful Powhatan.

On her way from the builders' yards at Newport News, the craft was in command of Capt. Joseph I. Kemp of Fore River, noted test pilot. Also on board was Capt. Giles C. Stedman, ranking skipper of the Merchant Marine.

Jobless Checks Hit New High

Changes in the compensaaion law "rather than employment conditions" was the cause of a new peak in the number of jobless insurance checks issued during May, the Massachusetts Division of Unemployment Compensation reported today.

Robert E. Marshall, division director, announced that $3,744,430 in claims were sent out on 375,096 checks to 125,000 recipients. Last year the commission sent out 342,039 checks. Revisions in the Massachusetts law became effective April 1.

Bayrd, Malden Publisher, Dies

Frank A. Bayrd, 66, publisher of the Malden News, died today at his home at 138 Webster st., Malden, following a heart atack.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Blanche Simpson Bayrd. Bayrd established the News in 1892 and under his direction it became one of New England's most successful small daily newspapers.

A noted traveler, Bayrd made 30 trips to Europe, he nonetheless found time to serve as state legislator, a member of the Metropolitan District Commission, a civil service commissioner and a Malden banking leader.

Cupid Steals Show At Commencements

Danny Cupid, the No. 1 gate crasher, came off with honors today following Commencement exercises at 10 New England schools of higher learning.

From Simmons College came the mass confession that 31 out of a senior class of 270 already were married, or were about to be, or were engaged.

The girls, who admitted their heart interests at a luncheon following Commencement exercises, indicated the percentage of those favoring marriage as a career was even higher.

But some of the girls, it was explained, hesitated about publicly revealing it, while others looked forward to a domestic life within a few short years.

FOUR FIELDS OPEN

Four fields open to girls were cited by Dr. Lillian Gilbreth of Montclair, N. J., in her Commencement address to 223 seniors who received degrees at Mount Holyoke College.

"Each of us must seek our place in four fields—home, citizenship duties, volunteer work and professional work," she declared. "Remain a part of your home and family wherever you go. Learn the value of leisure and how to use it."

Voted the most cheerful member of her senior class was pretty Barbara Farbush, who was to have made an address at Commencement exercises at Lasell Junior College, but who instead underwent an emergency operation at Waltham Hospital.

Shortly after 156 girls received their diplomas at the school, officials brought Barbara's diploma and graduation cap to her at the hospital. She resides in Waltham.

Boston University graduated its largest class in a decade at the Boston Arena, giving diplomas to 1458 seniors and awarding honorary degrees to Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and 11 others.

Dr. William Preston Few, Duke University president, who also received an honorary degree, told the B. U. students that "this is no time for neutral minds."

Without burning convictions, he added, none will be apt to go far in the "confused and uncertain world we live in."

MORE ON WAR

Further into the war theme went Dr. Lewis Perry, Phillips Exeter Academy principal, during his address to the 400 Simmons College graduates in Symphony Hall.

"The United States," he declared, "should take every action to insure the defeat of Hitler."

Commencement exercises of Emerson College were held in the college theater in Beacon st., with Dr. Harry Seymour Ross, president, presenting 33 degrees.

Class day was being celebrated at Boston College today. The 63rd annual commencement will be held tomorrow at Alumni Field, when approximately 525 graduates of the college of arts and sciences, the intown school, the law school, the graduate school and the school of social work will be awarded degrees.

Prof. Sidney B. Fay of Harvard University, who was commencement day speaker at exercises in Wheaton College's Cole Memorial Chapel, called for repeal of the Johnson act so that the Allies could borrow money from Uncle Sam. Also, he advocated repeal of the cash-and-carry provisions of the neutrality act.

STAMP OUT HATRED

Sixty-one degrees were awarded at Norwich University, one of the largest classes ever turned out by that military academy. Dr. Alfred E. Stearns of Danvers, headmaster-emeritus of Phillips Andover Academy, declared that the greatest task in America today is the stamping out of racial prejudice and hatred.

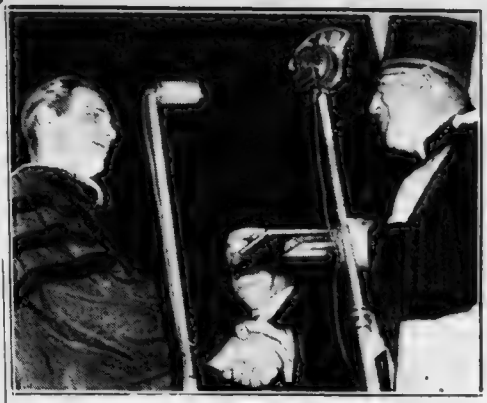
Democratic schools and colleges were hailed as "America's Maginot Line" by Walter F. Downey, state commissioner of education. Commencement speaker at Massachusetts State College. The school awarded 288 bachelor degrees and 66 advanced degrees.

All-time records were broken at the University of Vermont when it gave degrees to 299 seniors, including 222 bachelor degrees, 41 masters and 36 doctors of medicine.

Frederick Hale, who is retiring this year after 24 years as United States Senator from Maine, received an honorary degree at the University of Maine Commencement during which 393 seniors received diplomas.

Middlesex University awarded 58 degrees during exercises in the Hovey Memorial Institute, Waltham, at which Rev. Albert C. Dieffenbach of the Newton Center Unitarian Church, was principal speaker.

The Rt. Rev. Richard J. Quinlan diocesan supervisor of schools, delivered the Commencement address today at Jeanne d'Arc Academy, Milton. Thirteen Greater Boston girls were among those receiving diplomas.



Boston Evening American Photo.

DEGREE FOR MAYOR—Honorary degree of Doctor of Laws goes to Mayor Maurice J. Tobin . . . as well as a handshake from President Daniel L. Marsh, during commencement exercises of Boston University. 1458 students were graduated, 13 honorary degrees awarded.

Woman's Eyes Will Show If Stork on Way

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—A woman's eye shows whether she is pregnant!

The scotometer, an optical instrument which can do this, is being shown to the American Medical Ass'n meeting here.

The discovery that it will diagnose pregnancy was made at Long Island College of Medicine, which is exhibiting numerous physical conditions that can be detected in the human eye.

How early pregnancy can be seen in the eye, and whether this will be a short cut to diagnosis, the investigators to date have not revealed.

The signs are detected in the blind spots which the scotometer traces. There are numerous blind spots in human eyes and the fact that some of them change during pregnancy is the telltale.

Bolt Hits Neck Chain, Kills Dog

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., June 11 (AP)—Lightning struck the Carl Baird home.

It did little damage, but the Bairds' terrier, Bobby, was electrocuted. The lightning traveled down a neck chain fastened to a clothes line.

Saltonstall Council Plums Awaited

Political plums are expected to be handed out by Gov. Saltonstall tomorrow at the regular meeting of the Executive Council.

Among state posts to be filled is a vacancy on the state industrial accident board caused by the retirement of Carl A. Raymond.

RAIL DEATH PROBED

Boston & Maine railroad inspectors today probed an accident at the North Station yards during which a worker, Charles B. Ferguson, 57, of Branch st., Lowell, was killed in a fall from a moving train.

Billion Dollar Tax Bill Rushed to Vote

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Stringent parliamentary tactics kept the House today from considering any amendments to the $1,004,000,000 defense tax bill, major barrier to Congressional adjournment.

The rules committee voted yesterday to recommend seldom-used procedure by the which the House was called on to pass or reject the billin its entirety.

The chamber was asked to meet an hour early, at 11 a. m. eastern standard time, in the hope of completing action by evening.

Although Republican members of the ways and means committee supported the legislation, they issued a statement last night explaining that they had joined the Democrats "in view of the emergency which confronts the nation." They described the bill as "a makeshift measure, hastily drafted."

The statement said that the entire revenue question should be studied at once "with a view to enacting a balanced, long-range program at the earliest possible date."

10 PER CENT SUPERTAX

The tax bill imposes a 10 per cent "supertax" on all taxable income, broadens the income tax base, increases corporation and excise levies, and boosts the surtaxes on $6000 to $100,000 incomes. It also prlovides for a $4,000,000,000 increase in the $45,000,000,000 national debt limit.

The Senate probably will take up the legislation early next week, but quick clearance there is far from certain.

Sen. Nye (R.) of North Dakota said that many members wanted to remain for a thorough overhaul of the whole tax structure. Sen. Byrd (D.) of Virginia is pressing his proposal to increase the tax measure to $1,500,000,000 and to make a 10 per cent cut in "non-essential" federal expenses.

RUSH PREPAREDNESS

By the time Congress has enacted the tax bill, it also will have completed authorization for a vast preparedness system of Army and Navy development.

The House yesterday accepted Senate increases of about $677,000,000 in the Army appropriation bill, but the Senate still must approve a few details.

The measure totals about $1,500,000,000. The Senate passed and sent back to the House compromise bills authorizing an 11 per cent increase in the Navy and an expansion of the naval air force to 10,000 planes.

WRACKING PILES

Torturous and Itching Piles are Often Simple Piles—Here's Relief!

Simple Piles are often most painful, most itching, most embarrassing.

If simple Piles are driving you mad with pain and itching—if you squirm and scratch in agony day and night—here's what to do for relief!

Apply amazing Pazo Ointment! Pazo really does a job. It really relieves the itching of simple Piles—really relieves the pain and soreness.

Here's what Pazo does. Here's what makes it effective. First, it soothes the sore and inflamed parts. That relieves the itching and the pain. Second, Pazo lubricates the affected parts. That softens the hardened and dried parts and helps prevent cracking and soreness. Third, it has an astringent action that tends to reduce the swollen parts and, in many cases, check bleeding.

Pazo is neatly and thoroughly applied with small, perforated tube

This threefold effect gives real results in the alleviation of simple Piles.

Try Pazo and see the results you get. Note the relief from the itching and pain. If Pazo does not give you satisfactory relief, see a doctor as your condition may be such as to require a physician's services.

Get Pazo Ointment at any drugstore at small cost. (It also comes in suppository form for those who prefer.)

With Love from Dad

Dad was the last one to say Goodbye the night I left home "for good." I still have the watch he slipped into my hand as the train pulled in at the station. I don't remember just what he'd written on the card I found inside the jewelry box. It wasn't an eloquent message—but it was signed "with love from Dad."

I had to learn a little at a time how much that watch meant to me—and how much the giving of it meant to Dad. As I've seen my own son growing nearer and nearer to manhood . . . as I've shared his enthusiasms, and felt the hurt of a youngster's bitter disappointments . . . I've realized finally how much he meant to say when he wrote that card and signed it "With Love from Dad."

Now that I know how a father feels about his son, I can't go back and live over those years at home with Dad. But I can do the next best thing. And I will—

Plans Made for Huge Tribute to U. S. Flag

Preparations went ahead today for what may become Greater Boston's greatest mass tribute to the American flag.

A preview of the proposed gigantic gesture of patriotism was given in a half hour broadcast over Station WBZ and WBZA.

Boston Common is to be the scene of the event, next Friday noon at Parkman bandstand. Every civic, fraternal, patriotic and veterans organization in Greater Boston has been urged to take part. Quick and affirmative responses have been received from many.

EDITORS OF PAPERS

The monster Flag Day celebration is being sponsored by the Boston American-Record and radio stations WBZ-WBZA of the National Broadcasting Company.

Judge Leo P. Doherty, who has been chosen chairman of this Flag Day observance, told over the radio of the inspiration for it in a meeting of Walter Howey, editor of the Hearst newspapers in Boston, and Vincent F. Callahan, New England general manager of the National Broadcasting Company.

Present with them when the idea was launched were editors of the three Hearst newspapers in Boston, the Record, the American and the Sunday Advertiser, and radio station program executives.

It was decided that this program must be entirely patriotic without thought or taint of commercialism, or benefit to any person or organization participating, Judge Doherty told big vast radio audience. Its sole object is to drive home through sheer sincerity its patriotic purpose, he said.

John Noonan, executive city editor of the Boston American, pictured the scene as it will appear with thousands singing in unison the national anthem and chanting the oath of allegiance to the flag and the government for which it stands.

DELANEY SPEAKS

State WPA Administrator Denis W. Delaney spoke of the pride it will give him to have the WPA in Massachusetts take an active part in the exercises. The WPA will provide professional and amateur band and choral groups and recreational leaders will direct a salute by thousands of adults and boys and girls from Boston play-grounds and community centers, he stated. There will be nine bands and a choral group of more than 200 voices.

In accepting an invitation to take part in behalf of his comrades, State Commander Thomas J. Quinn of the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion pledged that every legionnaire who can possibly attend will be present.

Public and parochial school children will be in the throng, and representative groups from the Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts are expected.

PARK TO HELP

William Mullins, director of recreation for the Boston Park Department, is planning to collaborate the individual flag day exercises for each of the playgrounds by joining in this celebration on the Common.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Richard J. Quinlan, director of the parochial schools in the Boston archdiocese, said he will urge students at Boston College High School and other parochial schools to be present.

Those who by reason of illness are prevented from being present can join by listening to their radios. The two super-power radio stations, WBZ and WBZA, will broadcast the exercises.

John McNamara, program director, and Charles Gilchrist, director of special events, are working with Manager Callahan on the details of the radio program.

La Guardia Sees U. S. Near War

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11 (AP)—Mayor LaGuardia of New York said that the United States is nearer the verge of declaring war on Germany today than she was the day the Lusitania was sunk in the World War.

Referring to the speech of President Roosevelt at Charlottesville, Va., the Mayor declared, "the President was magnificent. He went as far as he could in his speech short of actually declaring war."

The Mayor came here to address the third annual convention of Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities tomorrow.

"I was wondering how far I could go in my speech tomorrow. Now I will be able to open my mouth and say just what I want to," he said.

Danger to N. E. In War Cited

Asserting that New England is "highly vulnerable" in case of war, Maj. Gen. James A. Woodruff of the First Corps Area today called for recruits for the regular army from this area.

Gen. Woodruff said:

"This section is highly vulnerable in the event of an emergency because of its enormous industrial activity. The time has come to appeal to the patriotism of our citizens to raise the 1113 men we must have before June 30."

No Allied Names On Italy Streets

ROME, June 11 (INS)—British and French street names in all parts of Italy were discontinued today and replaced by Italian names.

Even British and French names of historic battles in the World War were wiped out.

Now This Is an Idea!

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

If the world wants to fight why doesn't it pick out a spot like the Sahara desert.

Let each side take ten million men, a hundred thousand tanks, fifty thousand airplanes and start kicking up the sand.

No towns, no hospitals, no churches and no farms would be bombed. Of course that would take most of the pleasure out of war.

Only belligerents would be injured. And anything they do to the Sahara would be an improvement.

Italy Marches, Tax War's First Punch

All quiet, however, was reported directly by telephone from Gibraltar.

British adio broadcasts that reports in London were that "Italian forces have attacked at various points starting at dawn this morning" were picked up today by the NBC in New York. The British broadcaster stated:

"No further details can yet be made available."—Editor's Note.

NO COMMENT ON F. D.

The spokesman made no comment on President Roosevelt speech last night beyond calling attention to the fact that the Italian ambassador had taken no position regarding it.

It might be concluded, therefore, that it had created no particular impression in Italy, he said.

Steel-helmeted blackshirt troops patrolled the city through the night.

As Italy plunged into the conflict with the apparent intention of helping Germany bring the Allies to their knees by a sudden stroke, all Italian preparations pointed to expectation of quick but violent hostilities.

Most military men said that a combined aerial and naval action to seize the strategic Mediterranean islands of Malta (British naval base) and Corsica (French possession which was Napoleon's birthplace) appeared inevitable.

Attacks on Britain's fortress of Gibraltar, at the western entrance to the Mediterranean, on British Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean and on the French naval base at Bizerte, Tunisia, have been forecast by Fascist writers.

SUEZ CANAL ON LIST

Conquest of the Suez canal, also listed in the public prints as an Italian aim, would require an invasion of Egypt—which Mussolini has ruled out, at least temporarily.

The French and British ambassadors to the Vatican took up their residence in the Papal state, in which they became virtual prisoners.

"Totalitarian" censorship, which makes the corerspondent responsible for what he writes, went into effect. Officials explained that news distpatches would not be censored before transmission, but could be controlled "as they pass through the cable offices." Presumably this meant that undesirable dispatches would be stopped.

Telephone channels, other than transatlantic telephones, were open only to Switzerland, Germany and Yugoslavia.

More than 1,400,000 women and children had been prepared for the call to war work in factories, fields and offices under the civitiation mobilization plan.

Fascist authorities estimated that 10,000,000 women, old men and minors, exempt from military service, were available for the "third line of defense," as civilian war workers are called.

About 2,200,000 children between the ages of 14 and 18 were estimated to be available for war service behind the lines.

WITH ARMY—As advancing Nazi mechanized units near Paris, French cabinet flees . . . and Premier Paul Reynaud (above) is reported to have left the capital to join the French armies.

Britain Interns 700 Italians

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—Approximately 700 Italians previously blacklisted for holding anti-British views were started toward internment camps today by Scotland Yard agents, who began a roundup of new fifth column suspects yesterday immediately after Italy's declaration of war.

Police said it would take several days to complete the questioning and classifying of the remainder of London's 7000 Italian residents. Some of these are believed to have left London.

The roundup of suspects was pressed throughout the night as Scotland Yard agents raided Fascist clubs and other Italian gathering places.

It is estimated that there are approximately 25,000 Italians in the United Kingdom, of whom about 19,000 are British subjects.

NEW ZEALAND AT WAR

WELLINGTON, N. Z. June 11 (AP) — Prime Minister Fraser stated today that New Zealand was at war with Italy from 10:30 a. m. today, New Zealand time. (6:30 p. m. Monday, E. S. T.)

Turkey Arms to Aid War Against Italy

BUDAPEST, June 11 (AP)—Turkey, behind a mask of censorship, was believed preparing today to carry out her mutual air pact with the Allies, while Hungary and the Balkan nations stood to arms to await the first moves and reactions after Italy's entrance into the war.

The small nations of southeastern Europe clung precariously to their neutrality and expressed hope—not too strong—that they would be able to avoid war. Civilian populations tightened their belts in response to reinforced regulations designed to conserve food and supplies.

Turkey's reaction remained the most acute question. Fragmentary reports from Istanbul before wire communications were broken last night indicated the Ankara government intended to place the country on a war footing.

GREECE ANXIOUS

Greece anxiously watched for naval activities, fearing that because of her geographical position between Italy and Turkey, her peace might be threatened.

While all the Balkan states took heart from Premier Mussolini's statement excluding them from Italian war plans officials and citizens throughout the Balkans turned their eyes toward Soviet Russia.

Yugoslavia and Bulgaria looked hopefully to Moscow as a powerful slav big brother, but the others were apprehensive of possible Soviet designs—especially Rumania.

In Bucharest, the Rumanian Crown Council arranged to review defense measures. Reports from Sofia indicated that Bulkaria was relatively calm and counting upon Moscow's support in event of fresh war threats.

Official Budapest joined the Yugoslavs insisting that Italy's declaration need not bring any change of their status.

Nevertheless, Hungarian troops moved steadily toward the Rumanian frontier while the Rumanians strengthened their western borders as well as the Russian frontier.

INCREASE ARMY

Informed Istanbul quarters, expecting a meting of the national assembly and partial mobilization today increasing greatly the 400,000 men Turkey already had under arms, predicted that any move toward actual declaration of war by Turkey would wait on developments.

These quarters asserted that Turkey would live up to her agreement of last October to go to the Allies' aid.

Turkey's 400,000 men were concentrated in Thrace, along the Anatolian sea coast facing Italy's Dodecanese Islands.

Under the present circumstances, officials said Turkey probably could serve the Allies best by effective defense, since her naval and air forces are considered insufficient for extensive operations outside Turkey.

In case Greece were attacked and asked for help, Turkey is pledged to come to her aid, along with Britain and France.

Turks With Allies, See Duce on Losing Side

ISTANBUL, June 11 (AP)—Deputy Hussein Djahid Yaltchin said today that Turkey is at the side of the Allies "with all her heart and she wishes for their success."

This was the first public declaration concerning Turkey's position from an official quarter since Italy's entry into the war on the side of Germany.

Writing in the newspaper Yeni Saba, Yaltchin, who is an important political figure, said Mussolini had picked the wrong horse and would lose.

As the cabinet met in day-long session to watch consequences of Italy's decision, the official newspaper, Ulus, asserted the "Turks are not seeking war but will not hesitate to go to war with all our might if we must face war."

All Turkish attention turned toward the cabinet at Ankara, but it was believed there would be no immediate consideraiton of actual entry into the war.

Yaltchin expressed relief "the theatricals which Italy has put on for the past nine months" have come to an end.

"Italy," he declared, "enters the war as the enemy of Britain and France, which saved her from the German heel after Caporetto."

(Caporetto was the scene of a disastrous Italian defeat in the World War.)

OFFERS TO ADOPT ORPHANS OF WAR FLOODING PAPERS

There are homes and happiness for thousands of Europe's war orphans if the government will slash red tape and permit the children to enter this country.

In almost every city and town of these states, men and women are writing to the editors of the American, the Record and the Sunday Advertiser and requesting that little ones be rescued before their lives are lost in blitzkriegs and bombardments.

All letters are being rushed immediately to these newspapers' special war orphan bureau in Washington and from there into the hands of officials who have authority to act on applications for the children.

The belief is that if enough letters are sent, existing immigration law requirements will be relaxed to permit the little girls and boys to come here either for the duration of the war or for permanent adoption.

WANT TWO CHILDREN

Among the letters dispatched to the capital are these:

From a Springfield woman:

"My husband and I would very much like to adopt a child from abroad permanently, or, if possible, two children. We would like two brothers between the ages of four and seven. We are financially able to give the little ones every opportunity and advantage."

From a Greater Boston war veteran:

"My wife and I have been married 12 years and have only one little boy. He lived only two days and then God took him. We would be the happiest couple in the world if we could have one of those babies from 'over there.'"

"We are in a position to offer them the genuine love and affection of a mother and father, a Catholic home where God and security dwell, protection and guidance and peace.

"We should like a little boy not more than three years of age. We will take a French, English, Belgium or Polish child, and if he has a little sister, we would be happy to adopt her, too."

BROTHER FOR SISTER

From a Winthrop reader:

"We have a daughter, aged two and a half years, and we would like to adopt a child about that age, particularly a boy.

"We shall love and provide for him as we would our own little son."

From Lawrence:

"I have been married six years and have had no children. I have tried unsuccessfully to adopt a baby. My joy would be boundless if I could have a little blue-eyed, golden haired girl from Poland, where I was born.

"If the government will allow me to take two children, a brother and sister, I shall gladly do so."

WAR ORPHAN
Could You Love One?

From Dorchester:

"I was married late in life, consequently have no children. But my husband and I have the means and the desire to provide a comfortable, happy existence for two or three boys and girls from England, France or Belgium. We would like brothers and sisters.

"If my going to Washington and seeing the officials will cause them to let war orphans come to this country, I shall gladly make the trip."

From Brookline:

"The bringing to America of war orphans is a truly wonderful thing. I hope and pray the Roosevelt Administration will let it be done. And, knowing President and Mrs. Roosevelt, I am inclined to think the children will be here very soon.

"There is a very welcome place in my home for four boys for the duration of the war."

ANY CHILD AT ALL

From Exeter, N. H., this telegram:

"TELL GOVERNMENT I WILL CARE FOR TWO CHILDREN UNTIL WAR IS OVER. WILL TAKE CHILDREN FROM ANY ALLIED COUNTRY."

From Roxbury:

"My baby died a few weeks ago. I am not going to give away her toys and clothes. I shall treasure them and pray that some little war orphan will be enjoying them very, very soon."

From Malden:

"Please add my letter to the hundreds I know you are receiving. I would like a little boy, blond and with blue eyes. Believe me, I shall do everything for him that his own mother would want me to do."

From Milton:

"Of course, I want a baby from either France or England. I shall feel that in taking this child that I have saved her from death. She will be as much my own as though she were of my own flesh and blood.

"Every American who can possibly afford the money should adopt a war orphan and prevent their deaths in the horrible conflict over there."

Quick U. S. Help Seen Vital in War

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—A French officer who left Paris yesterday said here today that help must come quickly to be useful and that "if we can hold out until September we have won this war."

"With help, if that help comes in time," he added, "this war can still be won, but help must come not in a matter of months, but in days.

"We know that America wants to help and this help to be useful must come at once."

He added that tanks and planes were most needed.

Selassie May Seek Return of Throne

LONDON, June 11 (INS)—Haile Selassie, former ruler of Ethiopia, arrived in London after a sudden decision to leave Bath for the capital.

There was no immediate indication of the purpose of his visit. But it aroused great speculation among political circles, who hinted the Negus might be seeking a guarantee he would be returned to his throne in what is now Italian Africa.

Italy's World Fair Pavilion Still Open

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—Italy's $1,000,000 pavilion at the New York World's Fair is remaining open despite Italian entrance into the war.

Although Italy's contract carried an "escape clause" to cover emergency, Italian Commissioner Gen. Giuseppe Cantu said that in the absence of direct instructions from Rome" the pavilion will carry on its activities without change.

ITALIAN COLONY SEIZED

SHANGHAI, June 11 (AP)—The government of the British crown colony of Hongkong today took over all Italian property in the colony.

King Gives Il Duce Supreme Command

ROME, June 11 (AP)—King Victor Emmanuel issued a proclamation to the armed forces dated from "the zone of operations," announcing that he has entrusted Mussolini with command of Italian troops.

"As supreme chief of all armed forces, in accordance with my sentiments and the traditions of my house, I return among you as I did 25 years ago.

"I entrust to the chief of the government, the Duce of Fascism and the first marshal of the empire, command of troops operating on every front.

"I am thinking of you deeply while you are sharing with me our profound attachment and complete dedication to our immortal country. Gird yourselves to face difficult tests, together with allied Germany, with unconquerable faith in mastering them.

"Soldiers of the land, sea and air, united to you as never before, I am certain that your bravery and the patriotism of the Italian people will again assure victory to our glorious arms.

"Zone of operations, June 11, 1940."

French Halt Nazis' Advance on Seine darkened the city like a pall, the Associated Press reported.

National Broadcasting Company correspondents in Europe reported today to their New York offices that waves of German bombers were flying over Paris and that part of the city itself was burning this morning.—Editor's note.

Much of the Parisian population of 3,000,000, including all but a shell of the government, had fled. Civilians moved southward in streams. The capital's broad boulevards were almost deserted.

The French government has been transferred to Tours, about 130 miles southwest of Paris. News dispatches from agencies that formerly operated in Paris were coming from Tours this morning.—Editor's note.

ALLIES CUT OFF

German tanks in bold, isolated raids were reported to have sliced through the French lines to the environs of Paris and this disquieting news was confirmed by the French themselves.

The Nazi high command reported that strong bodies of Allied troops have been cut off and surrounded at several points and are facing destruction.

"Because of severe, bloody losses, the great number of prisoners and the capture of all kinds of material, the enemy's power of resistance is visibly waning," the official Nazi communique said.

A German military spokesman, according to the Associated Press, declared that the French capital was being "immediately threatened on this seventh critical day.

"No uniform French defense line any longer exists on the northern battlefront," the Nazi spokesman declared, but he gave no supporting details of fresh German gains.

In Rome, authoritative sources said Mussolini's Fascists "undoubtedly were engaging the Allies" since the zero hour had been set for dawn.

London took renewed hope from President Roosevelt's pledge of full "material help" from the United States," and applauded Roosevelt's dramatic description of Italy's war declaration as a dagger plunge "in the back of its neighbor."

So strong was the President's language that sources close to the Administration said the United States obviously had abandoned neutrality for non-belligerency.

Great Britain officially called Italy's declaration of war an act of "cowardice and treachery." Prime Minister Churchill arranged to make a report to the House of Commons today.

There were anti-Italian riots in London, Edinburgh, Liverpool and elsewhere in Britain in which a number of persons were hurt and the fronts of Italian shops and cafes were smashed. About 100 persons were arrested in Edinburgh.

ITALIANS ARRESTED.

Several hundred Italians throughout Britain were arrested in a roundup of Fifth Column suspects, the Associated Press reported.

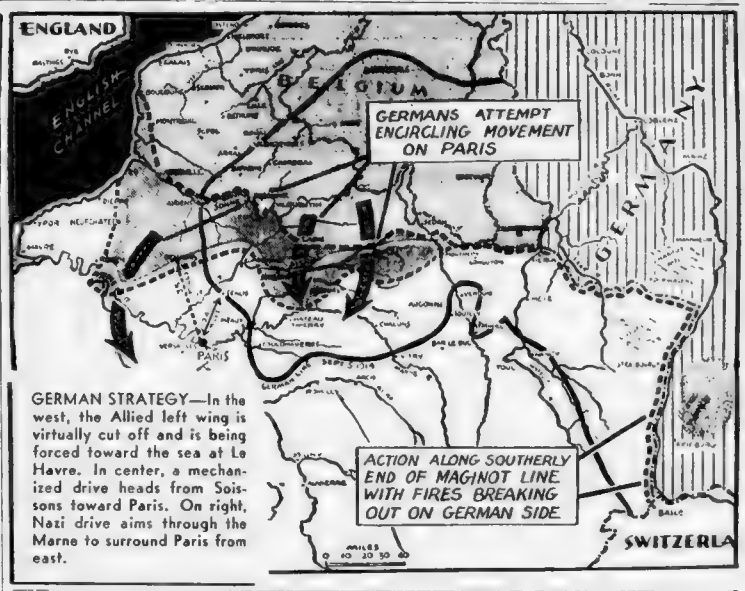
Canada's Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie Kink, in presenting to the Canadian House of Commons a unanimously approved resolution declaring a state of war against Italy, called Premier Mussolini "a carrion bird, waiting for brave men to die."

Germany hailed the Italian move as a triumph sealing the fate of France.

Turkey was reported preparing to live up to her mutual assistance pact with Britain and France, although her next step was not made clear.

All the Balkan nations rushed more troops to their borders in that ever-worried corner of the world, and all kept eyes on Turkey and Soviet Russia.

Crown Princess Juliana of Holland arrived in Canada with her two infant daughters to take up residence in Ottawa, first royal refugee to reach the Americas.



GERMAN STRATEGY—In the west, the Allied left wing is virtually cut off and is being forced toward the sea at Le Havre. In center, a mechanized drive heads from Soissons toward Paris. On right, Nazi drive aims through the Marne to surround Paris from east.

Nazis Claim Allied Rout With Millions Destroyed

BERLIN, June 11 (AP)—Two entire French armies already have been destroyed in the new Nazi offensive, informed sources declared today as the Germans raced southward to slice France in half and join the Italian forces.

Nazi sources estimated that the armies contained between four and five million men.

(This estimate, however, seemed extremely high, since the whole mobilized strength of the French nation was believe dto be not much more than 5,000,000 men, and France was understood to have only about 1,500,000 men in the great battle of France.)

A new "sack" was being thrown around Diepe by a German thrust southward along the English channel, informed sources said, and Allied trops trapped in it will be treated as were the encircled armies in Flanders.

LOCATION NOT REVEALED

The exact location of the two armies reported destroyed was not given, but the high command communique today said large sections of the Allies had been cut off and faced with destruction.

As the vast Nazi army of nearly two million men and machines of all kinds thundered sowthward, the high command asserted that "the enemy's power of resistance is visibly waning" because of "severe, bloody losses, the great number of prisoners and the capture of all kinds of material."

A German military spokesman said "no uniform French defense line any longer exists" on the northern front, and that Paris is being "immediately threatened."

The Allied retreat has been impeded, the high command said in a morning communique, by the German air force's successful destruction of Marne and lower Oise bridges.

The official communique said:

"The big battle between the channel coast and the Meuse is still raging in full force. On the right wing and in the center the pursuit of the defeated French armies relentlessly continued. Between Reims and Argonne the fighting was fierce but successful.

"At several points strong enemy forces, cut off and encircled, are facing destruction. Because of severe bloody losses, great numbers of prisoners and the capture of all kinds of materials, the enemy's power of resistance was visibly waning.

LE HAVRE BOMBED

Fighting and dive bomber units again attacked port and quay facilities at Le Havre, destroyed locks and sunk one destroyer damaged by a heavy bomb, and hit other ships, among which were one destroyer and two transports of 10,000 tons.

Besides raiding dense columns of retreating enemy transports, concentrations and battery positions, the air force also succeeded in hitting and partially destroying a number of bridges across the Marne and the lower Oise, thus severely hampering the enemy retreat.

On June 9 in the northernmost North Atlantic, one cruiser and four transports were bombarded and so seriously hit that the majority of these ships burned out.

ALLIES LOSE 29 PLANES

Enemy airplanes again under cover of dark dropped several bombs in north and western Germany. Damage was immaterial.

The opponent's total air losses yesterday amounted to 29 planes of which 19 were shot down in air fights, six by anti-aircraft fire and the rest destroyed on the ground. Furthermore three balloons of the balloon barrage were shot down.

Eight of our own planes are missing. First Lieut. Volker Paeckelmann, chief of company in one infantry regiment, forced eight attacking enemy tanks to surrender through exemplary cool-headedness, leading his company.

French Admit Nazi Troops Have Crossed Lower Seine

TOURS, France, June 11 (AP)—France, "wounded but standing" in the seventh day of the titanic battle of France, fought off German attempts to push beyond the lower Seine today and kept alert watch on her Italian border facing her new enemy.

A German crossing of the lower Seine after a vigorous push from Amiens to Rouen was announced in the French communique last night.

Today the French high command said that "between the sea and the Oise river attempts by the enemy to advance beyond the Seine were held."

ALPS TROOPS AWAIT ATTACK

The high command's morning communique said:

"It is confirmed that between the sea and the Oise attempts by the enemy to advance beyond the Seine were held.

"Between the Oise and the Oourcq the enemy sought during the night to make contact with our new positions.

"Nothing of importance to report on the Asine and the Meuse.

"On the Alps front our troops are in position and have not been attacked."

There was no information this morning on the situation at Paris, which the government had evacuated along with tens of thousands of civilians.

Communications were down.

Latest dispatches last night said that isolated Nazi tanks were in the Paris northwest region itself.

FRESH BRITISH TROOPS

The battle in the valleys of the Seine and Ourcq rivers had reached such a crucial stage that the French confined information on them to communiques twice daily.

They explained that the least additional information might be valuable to the enemy in what they described the greatest war of movement ever fought.

Customary military press conferences were discontinued yesterday when the government left the capital. They will be resumed shortly, however.

Fresh British arrivals reinforced the French as they lunged into another day's battle against relentless German columns spearing deeper and deeper into the soul of France.

A blistering hot sun was shielded by clouds today—the first good break in the weather that the troops have had in days.

Station Bans Foreign Language Broadcasts

PROVIDENCE, June 11 (AP)—Radio Station WPRO, CBS outlet in this city, has banned foreign language broadcasts on news of the international situation, S. P. Willis, general manager, said today.

The ruling affects two foreign language programs, one in French and one in Italian, broadcast daily from the station, which will included news reports.

Wild Says Italy May Injure Hitler

Italy's entrance into the war yet may be a boomerang to Adolf Hitler, it was declared by Professor Payson Wild of Harvard.

Professor Wild stated that if France could hold Nazi hordes from Paris they well might smash Italy on the southeastern border and then invade the Reich through the mountain passes in the Alps.

ITALIAN WEIGHT—One of the most modern cogs in the Italian military machine is the motorized corps of the 13th regiment of artillery (above). Today, it's weight has been thrown on the side of Germany . . . as Italy enters European conflict.

BOSTON'S ITALIANS DENOUNCE IL DUCE

Boston's residents of Italian extraction, shocked by Il Duce's entry into the war on the side of Germany, reaffirmed their allegiance to the United States today and deplored Mussolini's decision.

On every hand women folk prayed for peace.

Sadness over Italy's action was manifest on every side, wherever men and women gathered.

One woman who has a brother in the Italian aviation service and another in the tank corps, collapsed at the luncheon table when she received word of the declaration of war and, after being revived, was inconsolable.

"We had hoped that the Pope's idea of peace would prevail," said one woman proprietor of a little shop tearfully, "but there is too much confusion abroad. Too much noise. Everyone is talking and blaming others. Until God is listened to there will be no peace or justice. But thank God we are living in a peaceful country."

To the many importers of Italian goods with families to support, the word of Italy's entrance into the war came as an economic deathblow. Hard-pressed for some months past because of conditions overseas, they could see no further business now.

EXPRESS SORROW

Through spokesmen such as Joseph Gorrasi, grand venerable of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, Order of the Sons of Italy of America, and G. N. Lorgeri, editor and publisher of La Notizia, only Italian daily in New England, and a wounded veteran of the Yankee Division, they expressed sorrow at Italy's action and voiced their faith in the United States.

"We are, first of all, Americans," said Grand Venerable Gorrasi. "We are for America, right or wrong. We hope that friendliness which has existed toward our racial group in Massachusetts will not in any way be lessened because of conditions and circumstances over which we have no control.

"The Sons of Italy, which has 131 senior lodges and 62 junior lodges, with a total Massachusetts membership of 21,000, is an American patriotic, fraternal organization. It has existed more than 25 years. During this period we have worked to create a better understanding between racial groups which make up the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

LOYAL TO AMERICA

Editor Longarini said:

"I think it is the duty of all our leading citizens, clergy, public officials and press to make clear to the general public our national attitude and policies in order to remove confusion and misunderstanding. I know how the people of my race have been misunderstood and misrepresented in recent months.

"I can pay the highest tribute to the loyalty of our Italian-American population. There have been no subversive activities among them. I regret, personally, that Italy has declared war. It will affect business locally and throughout the country in a serious manner. Even the victors will be losers.

"But America has a very important role to play. She can wield tremendous world influence and be a mighty factor in imposing justice and order through a war-torn world."

King Haakon Safe, Rules From England

WASHINGTON, June 11 (INS)—Norwegian Minister Wilhelm Munthe De Morgenstierne today had received a cablegram reporting the safe arrival of King Haakon and the Norwegian government in London, and the addition of two new members to the government.

"The policies of the government remain unchanged," Morgenstierne said, "and it will carry on the fight for Norwegian freedom on the side of the Allies."

Wary Japan Eager To Avoid Incidents

TOKYO, June 11 (AP)—Vice Foreign Minister Masayuki Tani today advised the diplomatic representatives of Italy, Germany, France, England and the United States that Japan is anxious to eliminate any incidents between belligerents which might extend the European war to the Far East.

Tours in One Night Becomes War Haven

TOURS, June 11 (AP)—The white city on the banks of the Loire today became the emergency capital of France.

Tours, whose gravest peacetime concern was placating fussy tourists with good fare and wine, thus was turned overnight into the nerve center of government and diplomacy at a historic hour for France.

Carpenters to repair rotting floors city was requisitioned to house ministries, embassies, legations and their staffs.

Old buildings, some long condemned, were occupied by various government departments.

High officials apologized for the crowding as they hastily mobilized carpenters to repair rotting floors and erect office partitions.

NAZIS BOMB ENVOYS

Along with the seemingly never-ending stream of refugees pouring into the city from the north—from the direction of Paris about 150 miles away—rumbled trucks heavily loaded with boxes of government records.

In the same exodus are the luxurious embassy and legation limousines, first arrivals among them were in a caravan bringing, among others, the papal nuncio, the ambassadors of Belgium, Argentina and Spain and the ministers of Uruguay, Venezuela and Colombia.

They said they had been bombed en route by German planes but had suffered no casualties, and were thankful to the French government for having reserved quarters for them in a difficult situation.

Tension was evident as large numbers of police insistently waved on the slow moving refugee motorcades through the city.

SAD CHILDREN OF WAR

Stretching far back over the rolling Loire valley, the line contained countless children. Peering out of every crowded automobile were the expressionless, uncomprehending little faces.

Drying laundry, evidently washed at roadside streams, fluttered from many automobiles.

As to how many had passed through this city since the Nazi invasion of the low countries a month ago no one would hazard a guess.

One policeman shrugged his shoulders helplessly.

"All day and all night it goes on," he said. "A little while ago it was the Spanish coming north. Now our people are moving south. It is formidable, is it not, these moving days in Europe?"

U.S. War-Bound Plane Crashes; Pilot Dies

MARIAVILLE, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—A U. S. navy bomber en route from Buffalo to Houlton, Me., for delivery to the Allies, crashed and exploded on a rain-soaked pasture, killing its pilot, Allan B. Lindman, 26, of St. Louis, Mo.

The ship was one of nine which left Buffalo earlier in the day, the remaining eight landing at Albany, N. Y.

F. D. PUTS WAR BAN ON ITALY

of the American people is at stake."

Mr. Roosevelt summoned the United States to intensify its preparedness for "the task of any emergency and every defense."

An outside world "dominated by the philosophy of force," he said, would mean for the United States the "helpless nightmare of a people without freedom, a people lodged in prison, handcuffed, hungry, and fed through the bars from day to day by the contemptuous, unpitying masters of other continents."

DANGER TO AMERICAS

"It is natural also that we should ask ourselves how now we can prevent the building of that prison and the placing of ourselves in the midst of it.

"Overwhelmingly we, as a nation, and this applies to all the other American nations, we are convinced that military and naval victory for the gods of force and hate would endanger the institutions of democracy in the western world—and that equally, therefore, the whole of our sympathies lie with those nations which are giving their lifeblood in combat against those forces.

"In our American units, we will pursue two obvious and simultaneous courses.

PLEDGES ALLIED AID

"We will extend to the opponents of force the material resources of this nation and, at the same time, we will harness and speed up the use of those resources in order that we ourselves in the Americas may have equipment and training equal to the task of any emergency and every defense."

The reaction of official Washington was that President Roosevelt had, in effect, served notice on the world that the United States is abiding by its rule of neutrality in the case of non-belligerency.

Members of Congress who heard the President were either enthusiastic in their approval or apprehensive that the speech increased the danger of the nation being drawn into the war.

Most of those who offered comments endorsed the stand Mr. Roosevelt took, but there were some like Rep. Rogers (R) of Massachusetts, said "The speech sounded like a prelude to a declaration of war."

Two speakers before the Republican presidential nomination were critical in their appraisals. Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y. publisher, called the address an inflammatory effort likely to promote "the getting into the war."

Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor said that "the words may be the words of a neutral but the tone is the tone of a belligerent."

RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

The President traveled to Charlottesville in a special train after deciding to deliver the address [illegible] a short hour before Premier Mussolini announced that Italy was entering the war.

[illegible] the President [illegible] the [illegible] Secretary of State Hull, [illegible] Under Secretary [illegible] Welles, [illegible] Attorney General [illegible] from [illegible] Secretary [illegible] and Secretary [illegible] for Italy [illegible] a visa.

The proclamation also extended to Italian submarines the restrictions banning belligerent warcraft from American ports and territorial waters.

THE QUESTIONS

The Hearst papers Saturday began a poll of Congress on our national defense and particularly on universal military training. The following questionnaire was submitted to members of the House and the Senate.

"SHOULD not the United States have a definite, coordinated system of defense instead of indiscriminate appropriations for a lot of heterogeneous plans and purposes?

"DO YOU favor a large standing army, or do you think such a large body of professional soldiery a menace to democracy and an encouragement to militarism, and possibly despotism?

"DO YOU favor a democratic system of universal military service like the Swiss system, embracing the whole community, but only requiring a short two-weeks term of field maneuvers each year?

"DO YOU favor military training and rifle practice for the youth of America in the schools, as advocated for 20 years by the Hearst papers and as promoted by the annual Hearst rifle contests throughout the union?

"DO YOU favor the creation of additional naval and military academies, like Annapolis and West Point, in other sections of the country, to provide trained officers to command defensive forces?

"DO YOU favor an Atlantic coast navy and Pacific coast navy, each powerful enough to defend its own coast?

"DO YOU favor the enlargement of the Panama Canal, and the construction of the Nicaragua Canal, to add to the mobility of the fleet?

"DO YOU favor an overwhelming air force to cooperate with the army and navy, but under a separate air command, as advocated by the late General William Mitchell, and supported by the Hearst papers?

"DO YOU favor putting the United States into war unprepared?

"IF NOT, what system of preparedness do you favor, and when would your favored military system make the country adequately prepared for defense?

"SHOULD this system be used and constructed primarily for defense?"

Congressmen Favor Hearst Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, June 11—Leading a vanguard of legislators solidly backing the defense program of William Randolph Hearst, Sen. Claude Pepper, Florida Democrat, today asked for the biggest military establishment that America ever dreamed of.

"We must have an army expertly equipped," Sen. Pepper declared.

"Our navy must also be capable of meeting all combined opposition. Airplanes, too, are highly essential. I doubt if 50,000 will be enough. Compulsory training is probably the system that must be worked out. It seems the most reasonable. Let it start in the colleges and high schools if military authorities believe it is best.

"We are the last remaining citadel of democracy; all of the dictatorships will be against us. China, Finding but undefeated, will be about our only friend in the east."

OTHERS BACK PROGRAM

Sen. Pepper was [illegible] to express his opinion when approval of the Hearst defense program of the Senator from North Carolina and those of the House were received in reply to [illegible].

Rep. Zebulon Weaver [illegible] North Carolina:

"We will know better in a few weeks as to whether the United States needs a two-ocean navy. If the Allies win, the question will not be so imperative. If Germany wins, it's a different proposition.

"Meanwhile we should give serious consideration to the national defense and I believe that the army should be increased, because of present world conditions. Increase in the regular establishment won't menace democracy.

"I cannot make any comment just now on compulsory service plans. I heartily endorse voluntary military training in schools and believe that the rifle practice contests advocated by Mr. Hearst are very fine and should be encouraged."

FOR MILITARY TRAINING

Rep. C. Jasper Bell (D) of Missouri declared:

"I wish we had a big navy in both oceans today and that we had constructed the proposed Nicaragua Canal years ago. I do believe this our system of national defense needs coordination and strengthening.

"I believe that our regular army should be backed by a trained citizenry, which means some form of universal military training.

"I think boys of high school age should be given some military training. Shooting, for example, has always interested the American boy, a hold over from the days of our pioneer forefathers. The Hearst rifle matches held throughout the country have served a good purpose in fostering this spirit."

WANTS 1,000,000 ARMY

Rep. A. C. Schafer (R) of West Virginia said:

"I favor a regular army of 1,000,000 men while conditions are as they exist today. I believe that every boy should be given a light course in military training in high schools. The letter I shown in the R. O. T. C. and the keen competition in the Hearst trophy rifle shoots that would itself is intended in such matters.

"I favor a big air force but am not in a position to say whether the existing air setup should be altered. Enlargement of the Panama Canal and construction of a canal in Nicaragua are big questions which I am unable to answer immediately."

FAVORS SWISS SYSTEM

Rep. Noah M. Mason (R.) of Illinois:

"I definitely favor a coordinated system of defense instead of indiscriminate appropriations for heterogeneous plans and purposes.

"If we should have universal military service, it should be patterned after the Swiss system. Military training should be undertaken in all schools.

"I think the Panama Canal should be enlarged and a new canal constructed across Nicaragua. We should have an overwhelming air force under a separate air command."

U. S. Senator A. B. Chandler (Dem.) Ky.:

"The country should prepare to meet any eventuality or emergency. It is necessary that we have the strongest army, navy and air force. I'm prepared to support the two-ocean navy program if it is necessary. I think our military forces should be used only for defense."

London Sees Hitler Force About Spent

LONDON, June 11 (AP)—British military circles said today Germany was "obviously overstrained" and they expressed confidence that Britain could withstand the expected attack.

"No doubt in the next few days the main force of the German attack must be spent," a spokesman said, adding that the exhaustion of the attacker must inevitably be greater than that of the defenders.

He cited the double attack on Rotterdam yesterday which he said had "made hastily any progress while the losses of men and tanks were [illegible]

TYPICAL AMERICAN FAMILY IN MASSACHUSETTS CONTEST

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY OR TOWN _____

NO. OF CHILDREN _____

BOYS _____ GIRLS _____

RECENT PHOTO OR SNAPSHOT OF ENTRANT ATTACHED HERE NOT NECESSARILY THIS SIZE

All the thrills of living in the newest of new houses, fitted completely and to the last word with ultra-modern equipment—yet with no work to do—will come to the prize-winning family in the Typical American Family in Massachusetts contest.

During their expense-free week at the New York World's Fair of 1940, the members of this family will live in one of the two newly-built FHA model houses which have been tastefully furnished by Sears Roebuck & Co.

Not only that, but this same company will completely outfit the winning family for its exciting trip before the start for the big exposition is made.

With the contest edging toward its close at midnight next Saturday, entries are reaching the contest editor's office in increasing numbers.

It behooves the laggards to hurry if they wish a chance for selection as the fortunate family to spend the week of July 22 at the biggest World's Fair ever.

Remember — everything is free, even transportation to and from Boston, and even housing and meals at the Fair.

Elsewhere on this page the simple rules of the contest are printed. There is nothing to buy, nothing to sell, and no strings attached. Read the rules carefully.

And remember, too, in addition to the first prize, there are four other World's Fair prizes for the next four families picked as runners-up:

Second prize: Free transportation, round trip, between Boston and New York via New Haven R. R.; free admission to the Fair for three days; free entertainment and guides—plus $40.

Third prize: Free transportation via American Airlines; free admission for three days; free entertainment and guides—plus $30.

Fourth prize: Free transportation, via Eastern Steamship Lines, cabin and meals free; free admission to the Fair for three days, free entertainment and guides—plus $20.

Fifth prize: Free transportation, via New Haven R. R., between Boston and Providence, and Colonial Steamship Lines between Providence and New York; free cabin and meals; plus free admission for three days, free entertainment, free guides and $20 cash.

Typical Family Contest Rules

1—The Typical American Family Competition, conducted by the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American, in co-operation with the New York World's Fair of 1940, is open only to citizens of the United States residing in Massachusetts.

2—The name and address of each family, with the number of children, boys and girls, must be submitted on the official entry form, together with a letter of not more than 300 words describing the family and explaining why it should be selected as the Typical American Family in Massachusetts. No photographs will be returned.

3—Entries will NOT be judged by the literary style or excellence of the letters submitted, but strictly on the qualifications and characteristics of the family.

4—A recent photograph or clear snapshot of the family must accompany the entry.

5—The entry of a candidate family may be submitted by a relative or friend, or by a member of the family.

6—Entries close on Saturday, June 15, at midnight. The completed form must be mailed or delivered to the Advertiser-American Typical American Family Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston, Mass., before that time.

7—The selection of the Typical Family will be made by a committee of distinguished Massachusetts men and women will qualified to establish the requirements of a Typical American Family, and the committee's decision will be final.

8—The parents and two children of the Typical Family selected, the eldest child to be not over 18, will be transported from Boston to the New York World's Fair and back by automobile, with all meals and hotel expenses paid. They will be entertained at the Fair for one week, beginning July 22, without any cost whatever to themselves. The Family, while at the Fair, will live for one week in a completely furnished house built inside the Fair Grounds in accordance with the standards set up for home construction by the Federal Housing Administration. The house accommodates four persons, and for this reason, only four members of the Family selected may go to the Fair. The Family will have complete freedom of action as to what they want to do and see. They will, in fact, live each day as they would during any normal holiday period.

9—It is understood that entrants give permission to publish photographs and stories of their Family.

10—This competition is not open to employes of the Boston Sunday Advertiser-Boston Evening American, nor of other publications or advertising media.

It's Easy to Dance Expertly

"I'm just not a dancer," he apologized, "as for fancy stuff like the tango, well—"

Dancing doesn't require any special talent; there's no reason for you to hang back when the music begins, to miss the fun. Anyone who can follow a footprint diagram like the one with our picture can learn to dance well.

This diagram is for the Side-Close Step in the tango—and it's as easy as it looks.

Count 1—Step forward on left foot. Count 2—Step forward on right foot, AND—Quickly place left foot to side of right foot. 3—Quickly close with right foot. PAUSE for a second, then repeat, starting with right.

Notice that the tango rhythm calls for smooth glides, followed by quick steps and a languorous pause. To dance in tango style, move with catlike precision—but only from the hips down. Keep head and shoulders gracefully at ease.

Our 40-page booklet, Teach Yourself the Latest Dance Steps, explains with clear instructions, footprint diagrams how to do basic steps and variations in the Westchester, rumba, Conga, tango, waltz, fox-trot and shag. Shows how to combine steps; gives tips on keeping time; leading, following.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, Teach Yourself the Latest Dance Steps, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"WITH the breakdown of the British Empire, I believe we can also break Anglo-Saxon influence in North America . . .

"If we had Mexico, we should solve all our difficulties . . .

"With the treasure of the Mexican soil, Germany could be rich and great.

"Some day, when I order war, I shall not be in a position to hesitate because of the ten million young men I shall be sending to their death.

"There is only one legal right, the nation's right to live."

These are the words of Adolph Hitler, spoken years ago as he outlined his dreams of empire to his followers.

Those who have read Mein Kampf, Hitler's aggression "Bible," will note a striking and somewhat disconcerting similarity between the above-stated aims and the passages that concern Belgium, France and the British Empire.

At this late date it is needless and useless to recall that the nations of Europe listed for extermination in Mein Kampf did not take either the writer or his book seriously.

They tolerated internal dissension, tried to steer a precarious course between Communism on the one side and Fascism on the other, dissipated their resources and became steadily weaker.

All the while, Hitler and his Nazi autocracy were perfecting their military, political and economic hegemony and becoming constantly STRONGER.

We know what is happening over there now.

We require neither treatises, diagrams nor pictures to show us how tragically horrible is the price of waking up TOO LATE!

But for us, thanks to the broad Atlantic and the miles that separate the United States from the European war scene, it is fortunately NOT TOO LATE.

"WE STILL HAVE TIME to wake up; we still have time to realize that we are woefully lacking in equipment for modern warfare in most of its phases—few trained troops, few effective weapons, an entirely inadequate Air Force, and ships that could hardly be expected to resist an aerial bombing.

Wisdom dictates and patriotism demands the speedy and complete arming of America.

But the simple manufacture of great numbers of guns, tanks, cruisers and airplanes is NOT ENOUGH.

Really to be effective, machines must have competent man power behind them.

The best weapon in the world is little better than no weapon in the hands of an unskilled, untrained man.

That is why we must have an Army, Navy and Air Force of MEN, not a hastily assembled collection of RECRUITS.

That is why we must have soldiers, sailors and fliers, NOT GUN FODDER.

And that is why the Hearst papers have advocated for this country the Swiss system of universal compulsory military training as a democratic system which in no way endangers the institutions of a democratic nation.

PEACEFUL AMERICA, unlike the totalitarian nations abroad whose business is war, does not require a huge standing army.

But America does require and certainly ought to have an army of defense that could oppose an enemy without the wholesale slaughter that is always the price of unpreparedness.

If we had a military system patterned after that of Switzerland, a country that has had no wars for more than a century and today, considering its size, continues to be one of the most peaceful and powerful in the world, we would be able to put five million TRAINED men into our initial mobilization line.

And, in addition, we would be able to support that first line with another five million of reserves, all fully and effectively armed.

Then no nation or no dictator on the face of the earth would dare talk of the plunder awaiting him on our shores or think of attacking us.

If we value our country and hope to preserve the blessings of freedom and democracy, we must become a nation of PATRIOTIC CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

We cannot afford to be a fool's paradise of parasitic, invasion-inviting SLACKERS.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, June 11—It was warm when I reached Washington Sunday night and I found everyone here in the same tense mood they had been in when I left.

When one is receiving dispatches from abroad every little while, it is almost impossible to feel that any of the normal occupations of life have any reality.

The rest of us throughout the country may be able to forget this for a time, but here in the White House there is never a minute when we can ignore it.

I do not wonder that every effort is bent toward one objective, to have the mechanized materials for war ourselves in the hope of keeping us at peace. At least, if we ever have to go to war, we should be sure that our soldiers have as much protection as it is possible to give them under modern conditions.

SOME DAY, perhaps, we shall be able to think again about friendly relations with European nations, but, for the time being, it seems to me we shall have to devote ourselves entirely to knowing our own country better and developing our relations with nations on this continent.

I am very much interested, therefore, in the arrangements which have been made by the "Open Road," an organization which arranged many trips for college students, teachers and members of professions to European countries.

It is now arranging trips in this country, with the special object of having people really know the lives and problems of other people throughout the nation.

This summer, five universities and colleges are developing plans with the co-operation of the "Open Road" organization.

Under the auspices of the Graduate School of Harvard University, one group will study social and economic factors which influence education in urban and rural New England.

A representative county in the South will furnish five intensive weeks of study, under the auspices of Teachers' College, Columbia University.

The School of Education, New York University, will conduct a seminar in the Tennessee Valley, while life problems of the great plains and Rocky Mountain area will be studied under the Colorado State College of Education.

A group of Antioch College students will spend three weeks in a New England textile town and three weeks in an Alabama textile town, investigating life in a textile manufacturing community.

This seems to me a very valuable offering in education. The "Open Road" is an institution which I think deserves support from us all.

SOME fancy statistics indicate a woman's clothes weigh one-third as much as a man's. And a man's clothes usually weigh about seven pounds. I would like to make this statistician a little bet the clothes most women wear in Summer do not weigh as much as one pound. I mean the smart, modern women . . . Rushing in from the hot street in the Summer into one of those air-conditioned places is not so good. In fact, if you have been perspiring it is dangerous . . . Their child reached the age of three and still didn't have a hair on her head, some friends told me. They tried everything recommended to grow hair with no results. Then a doctor told them to have the little girl drink carrot juice. They did and immediately her hair began to grow . . . Pants or slacks some of the plumper females are wearing do not seem to have been cut to fit the wearers' dimensions. There were some lines written on this matter which I recall as going:

You look charming as you advance, my sweeting,
But have you seen yourself retreating?

WORLD'S LARGEST mortgage is that of $44,300,000 on Rockefeller Center held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company . . . New York subways are among the safest railroads in the world. Are equipped with 56 types of safety devices. One of these is called the "Dead Man's Button." If an engineer becomes suddenly ill or dies and his hands fall from the controller the train stops immediately . . . Think I'll stop writing for the day. I am too indignant to work. Instead of buying two ten-cent cigars I invested in a 25-cent cigar. When I put a match to this expensive cheroot it flamed up like a torch. And then it dropped some sparks and burned a hole in my new made-to-order shirt I got for a wedding anniversary present.

"DO YOU WEAR a belt or suspenders?" asks a Pittsburgh client. Both, sir. But not at the same time. Mostly suspenders . . . In 1938, A. Hitler stated there was no hope of permanent peace in the world, in his belief, until every country was governed by a dictator . . . Those having best chance for long life are tall, thin, dark, of temperate habits, live in a temperate climate, work in a somewhat sedentary occupation and have had long lived grandparents and parents. Well, I am all right on several of these counts. But though tall and dark I am not thin. My parents were fairly long-lived but I never saw my grandparents. How about you? Maybe we better form a "it won't be long now" club or an "eat, drink and be merry" association. But don't be too discouraged. I know a fellow who was short and fat and rode in steeplechase races when he was 87.

HISTORICAL NOTE on "heartless" Manhattan. "Since 1791 the New York hospital has been accepting patients needing its help without regard to race, creed or ability to pay" . . . Seventy per cent of New York's horse players have never been to a race track. About 950,000 New Yorkers make their daily bets with neighborhood bookies. Taxing this betting would do much to help the big town balance its budget.

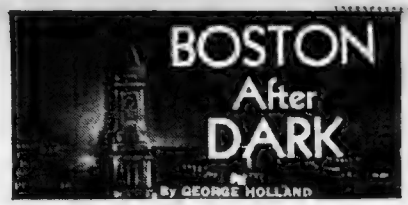
MOVIES DEPT.: Leo McCarey, the producer, has an idea for a musical comedy, set in a mythical kingdom, but has taken no steps towards producing the film . . . "What's delaying you?" someone asked him . . . "I'm afraid that maybe, by the time the movie is released," he explained, "Hitler already will have taken that mythical kingdom."



THUS FAR IT'S A mere mite (about seven and a half pounds when it was born Saturday and in the shrinking process peculiar to the first week of human existence) . . . Nor has the kid been given a Christian name . . . And except for enthusiasm which this item may generate in the ranks of old Harvardians there may be nothing to identify the babe as the first grandson of Huntington R. "Tack" Hardwick . . . They may even name it Edward Ball Simmons, Jr., and in many circles, particularly in the newspaper world, that will be an honorable and respected tag sufficient unto any newcomer in this land of laughs in the vale of tears

BUT AT GROTON AND HARVARD—it is safe to bet this far in advance—the lad will be known as "Tack" . . . Unofficial celebration of the birth of the first male descendant to the last football player Harvard ever spawned was going on over the week-end in varied separate and distant parts of the world . . . The jubilant grand-daddy had used up a pad of telegraph blanks within an hour of the news coming from Baltimore that "Tack's" lovely daughter, Margaret Stone Hardwick Simmons, was a mother . . . (Which accounts for the widespread jubilees).

THE CHILD'S ARRIVAL will be duly noted, also, in the society journals . . . Attached to the great event is one sad note . . . It is too bad that Percy D. Haughton, football coach and personal mentor to Tack the First, is not around to celebrate . . . Of the great Haughton teams, the brightest, particular star of them all was the new grand-daddy, "Tack" Hardwick . . . Percy's shade is nodding approval some place . . . It's practically a great-grandson for him . . . Because he loved the two-headed All-America back and end like a son . . . Meanwhile, this will notify the legion of Hardwick friends and admirers hereabouts of the blessed event . . . Like the loyal guy he is, "Tack" restrained release of the glad tidings—bursting though he was with pride—until it could appear here first . . . (Oh, yes . . . the father is an able young Baltimore editorial worker, and the mother, besides being "Tack's" daughter is the offspring of Margaret "Peggy" Stone of Chestnut Hill, daughter of the late Galen Stone, the Boston financier.)

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Speaking of offspring, how do you like small Patricia Fairbanks' capsule sum-up of the 1940 World's Fair? . . . Patricia is five, and after telling the neighborhood that her daddy, Sheldon H. Fairbanks, managing director of Wonderland Park, was going to "fly her to the Fair,' she made the old man make good on her bland announcement to the other kids . . . It was Patricia's first trip in an airplane, but she took that in stride . . . As for the Fair (a child's-eye view): "It's mostly flags and fountains," quoth young Miss Fairbanks.

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 — Twentieth Century-Fox jumped the gun and took up Dean Jagger's option today although 20 days still remained before a decision had to be made. That means Dean must be okay as Brigham Young. He'll next have an important spot in "The Californian," a new version of "The Mark of Zorro," with Ty Power in the Fairbanks, Sr., role.

Jagger's is a typical "Go to Broadway to get to Hollywood" yarn. He was around the movietown some years ago but before he could get any real breaks he had to hypo Hollywood's interest in him by clicking on the New York stage. Now he's trying to arrange his film contract so that he can do one play a year. Has three stage offers at the moment

TWO-MINUTE STORY

"LOOK," says O'Brien to me, "I'm in a dilemma! And a dilemma," in answer to a glance of wonder, "is an awkward or vexatious situation. O'd man Webster himself couldn't find a better word to describe my trouble."

I recall when he retired from the wrecking business at the age of sixty. He told me one day that in his new house he had built a room that was to be his library; and these latter years of h's life were to be spent in reading.

He had married early in life, and a great disappointment it had been to him and the wife when no children had come to bless their home. But they were a congenial couple, and bore together the burdens of his business. They were domestic and loved the new home. So I was a bit surprised to see him day after day haunting the jobs of the companies that used to be his competitors.

"IT'S THE SINGING. Someone told the wife she had a voice—and she has! And the room she practices in is right above my library. Now, I can't ask her to stop; it's the only enjoyment she has. But I can't read, either. And there you are!"

"Prescott," says I to the office boy, "will you run down to the Fourth Street job and tell the foreman there to have three men for me tomorrow morning to start that new job over by the state road?"

"I'll go," says O'Brien. "That Fourth Street job is right on my way home."

"If you don't find him at the shack," I said, "leave word there. They're using dynamite, so don't go on the job"

He went out.

About a half hour later the phone rang. "O'Brien was in the building when a dynamite blast went off," reports the foreman. "He's at the hospital now."

IT IS THREE weeks later, and I just came from O'Brien's house. He was sitting in his library with books piled around him and one in his hand. I don't think I ever saw a more contented man.

"Mac, it's wonderful!" says he. "Dr. Riley said the words that made me a happy man."

"What did he say?" says I.

"Stone deaf!" says he.

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

YEARS AGO, when everything I loved and trusted crashed for me, I found a creed. It steadied me through heartbreak years.

It kept me believing in God and Man and Life . . . it saved my love and courage and faith. It's preserving my sanity today. And I'm passing it on to those whose reason may be rocking in the face of seemingly triumphant Evil.

Here it is, that creed of mine, for what it's worth:

I believe in Decency, and in those clean and kindly motives for which it stands.

There is nothing sentimental about this belief. It is not based on "wishful thinking." I believe in Decency because history shows that it is Life's plan for Man . . . because history proves that Man moves constantly into a finer, fairer way of Life.

I believe in Decency as I believe in fresh air, pure water, wholesome food. These are part of the right plan for the body. And, by the same token, I believe that Decency is the right plan for the soul.

POWER-CRAZED men have tried to stamp out Decency in the past, as they are trying to stamp it out in the present. But they have never succeeded. Power and Brutality may have triumphed for a while; but always, at long last, Decency has won. Always Humanity has limped forward to nobler, higher destinies.

And so I am betting all I have and all I am on Decency today. The sky is dark. There is crookedness and corruption at home . . . there is betrayal and brutality abroad. But beneath all this . . . and above all this . . . Decency goes on!

As the sap rises in the Spring . . . as the sleeping seeds come inevitably to bloom because it is the law of Life . . . so, I believe, Decency will triumph because it is the normal and inevitable law of the Soul.

I BELIEVE in Decency as I believe in Growth. Winter may come, but nothing has ever stopped the Spring. I believe in Decency as I believe in the Spring . . . as I believe in the Dawn after the Darkness.

I believe in decency as the normal, inevitable destiny of man. And no matter how dark the immediate prospect I believe that decency will always win.

That's the creed that's holding me steady through these dreadful days. I'm giving it to you for what it's worth

"FAREWELL TO THEE" was the theme song at the dinner party which Barbara Ann Newbert gave last evening for some of her Harvardian friends who have just completed their studies . . . for from now until college opens in the fall debs and deb parties will have to do without the stalwart sons of the Crimson who will scatter to the four points of the compass for their summer vacations . . .

Barbara is the daughter of Mrs. Walter Eugene Newbert at whose Waban home the party took place . . . Her brothers, Walter E., Jr., who graduates from Harvard next week, and Robert, who has just completed his freshman year, were co-hosts with her . . .

Since Harvardians were the guests of honor we will list the male guests first—Henry Reed, Joseph Locke, Joseph Bodell, Rex Wigham, Tom Carroll, Loren McKinney, William Thurston, Russell Fry, Richard Palmer, George Waters, Larry Munson, Arthur Neff and Tony Jackson . . . The feminine guests were Emily Garritt, Anne Clark, Mary Phyllis Coe, Lee Burnett, Sally Lawrence, Nancy Scott, Marjorie Ober and Cynthia Vose, all debutantes of the coming season . . .

Barbara, a graduate of Beaver Country Day, has already begun her active debutante whirl and makes her formal social bow today at a luncheon at Brae Burn Country Club . . . Interested in athletics, tennis and golf especially, she has recently become an aviation enthusiast . . . She will spend the summer with her family at the Samoset in Rockland, Me., and plans to enter Bradford Junior College in the fall . . .

The little Chinese game of pull the string and get a prize which they have at a number of beach resorts, is being played in a nicer, more picturesque way at the luncheon . . . There is a corsage for each guest, but each bunch of flowers is tied to the end of a long ribbon wound around a Maypole-like affair with the other ribbons . . . so each girl must take her ribbon and unwind it to find her corsage . . .

There is an individual Maypole in the center of every table, and both the ribbons and flowers are carried out in a pink, blue and lavender color scheme . . . Barbara's pale blue crepe dress is enhanced by white hat and slippers and a corsage of white orchids . . . Mrs. Newbert is also wearing white accessories with her navy blue ensemble . . .

Guests at the head table include several of Barbara's classmates at Beaver—Emily Garritt, Nancy Wilbur, Priscilla Ireland, Lee Burnett, Ann Clark, Sally Lawrence, Cynthia Vose and Marjorie Ober . . . and there are about 100 guests in all . . .

Margaret Stockton Crocker Makes Bow

THE DEBS are having a fair sample of what the proverbial debutante whirl is all about . . . Immediately after Barbara Newbert's luncheon they will all pile into their cars and head for the tea at which Margaret Stockton Crocker is being presented by her mother, Mrs. George H. Crocker, Jr. . . .

Margaret, a tall, vivacious brunette, resembles her sister, Priscilla, who was one of last winter's popular debs, and in almost every respect her party is identical to her sister's debut a year ago . . . Her cousin, Martha Crocker Addison, heads the pourers . . .

Dance Benefit Draws Many

Reservations continue to pour in for the supper dance to benefit the American Friends of France to be held at the Casino in Magnolia tomorrow evening.

Mrs. George H Davenport will entertain a party of eight; Mrs. Daniel Sargent will attend with several friends and Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Rogers of Cambridge will entertain fifteen friends at dinner before driving down to the shore.

Others planning to attend with groups of friends are Mrs. Frederick Bradlee, Jr. Mrs. Russell Codman, Mrs. James B. Campbell, Mrs. E. Sohier Welch, Mrs. Pierrepont L. Stackpole and Mrs. Robert Lovett.

Latest in Dinner Gowns

By ANNICE BRINK

IT'S THE BLACK sheath of a dinner frock which is going to look smartest of all for the semi-formal delights of rooftop dining and dancing, or the more important resort dances. But there will be an undoubted touch of summer in them, for gay colored silk jackets, boleros and capes will mask their formality, and give a flower look that's incredibly becoming as well as sophisticated above the black.

The sheath frocks are notable for a fullness to the skirts which are cut so they fall with an absolute straightness, except when they're in motion . . . and then they froth around the feet, not flare.

In striking contrast to the pencil-slim sheath line, will be the comeback of circular or semi-circular effects . . . not a part of the skirt, actually but flared pinafore or apron arrangements. Unusual draping will also get the effect across . . . for the draping will look "added on" instead of an actual part of the cut.

Zorina's famous drawstring dance dress . . . of one layer of chiffon, from neck to waist, hung on a drawstring around the neckline . . . and then flaring around the hem to the sum of twenty-nine yards . . . promises to be quite the sensation of the summer.

The story goes that absolutely nothing is worn under the frock . . . this is for the much-publicized costuming of "Louisiana Purchase." At any rate, there is news in the beautiful draping of the drawstring neckline, and it looks as though a new series of too-beautiful Zorina inspired fashions is on its way.

Polo Teams To Be Feted

The National Intercollegiate Polo Championship matches, being played off this week at the new Forbes Field in Westwood, are arousing a great deal of interest among Greater Boston polo fans.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Princeton and Army teams will play a semi-final match; Thursday Yale will meet Penn Military College, and Saturday the winners of these two matches will compete for the championship title.

Mr. Arthur Lewis of Medfield, father of Jack Lewis, No. 1 man on the Harvard team, will entertain the Yale and Penn Military poloists at a cocktail party following Thursday's game.

Prominent local Yale graduates and their wives who are serving as sponsors for the Thursday matches include Mr. and Mrs. William Bayne, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Soule, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. B. Peabody and Mr. and Mrs H Eugene Sawyer.

Mrs. John W. Myers of Westwood will be hostess at a cocktail party tomorrow afternoon in honor of members of the Princeton and Army teams.

Mary Hatch Weds in Fall

Mrs. Joseph Hatch formally announced the engagement of her daughter, Mary Dorothy, to Robert Burns Grady of Marlboro via afternoon tea at her Waltham residence.

The bride-elect . . . a graduate of Roxbury Notre Dame Academy and Emmanuel College . . . looked most attractive in frock of apple green . . . fashioned with tucked chiffon bolice and full, swing skirt of plain crepe. Mrs. Hatch wore a corsage of yellow orchids with her smart navy blue costume.

MARY DOROTHY HATCH

Taking turns at the tea urn during the afternoon were Mrs. E. Wallace Pyne, Mary Frances Murphy, Dorothy Kohl and Mrs. George E. Ketchet.

Among the guests were Mrs. Michael Grady . . . mother of the prospective bridegroom . . . Mrs. Robert Barry, Mrs. William C. Conway, Mary Mooney, Virginia and Miriam Cunningham, Anne Fitzpatrick, Mary Marrs, Frances Downey.

HELEN PARRISH, radiant star of stage and screen, says, "When I want to pep up my complexion I use Dioxogen Cream, the wonderful active oxygen cream for cleansing and skin toning. It makes my skin look wide-awake! It's wonderful!" Yes, because Dioxogen Cream is different! It brings your skin this extra beauty ingredient — beneficial, pure active oxygen — found in no other cream. Yet Dioxogen Cream costs no more than ordinary cold cream. As little as 20c. Try using Dioxogen Cream regularly—for cleansing—as a soothing overnight cream — and for a quick beauty tonic before a date. Refreshing as Spring itself. And how lusciously smooth and clear Dioxogen Cream helps to keep your complexion. Treat your complexion to Dioxogen Cream today. Ask your druggist for the 20c, 50c or $1.00 size today!

Put those "DREADED DAYS" ...back on your ACTIVE list!

Do you still give up activity and give-in to suffering at your time of functional menstrual pain? Millions of women no longer do—for they've learned about Midol!

For your own comfort and release from calendar slavery, try this new formula. Midol contains no opiates. One ingredient is prescribed frequently by thousands of doctors. Another ingredient, exclusively in Midol, reinforces the relief most users enjoy by reducing spasmodic pain peculiar to the menstrual period.

If you have no organic disorder calling for medical or surgical attention, Midol should give you the comfort for which you've often hoped. If it doesn't, consult your doctor. All drugstores have Midol. Five tablets, more than enough for a convincing trial, only 20¢; 12 tablets, 40¢.

MIDOL

RELIEVES FUNCTIONAL PERIODIC PAIN

You Can Be Beautiful

SOOTHING, expertly-trained hands, under which your troubles ease away and you literally can sleep deeply . . . that's part of the bbody remolding and nerve-soothing new series of treatments which Arline Gould describes today.

Pattern 9333 may be ordered only in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards 36-inch fabric and 1⅞ yards ruffling.

To get this pattern send fifteen cents to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th street, New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

Milk and Menthol Bubbles Bathe Away Fat, Nerves

By ARLINE GOULD

WHEN LIFE loses some of its flavor for you . . . when it's a great effort to do the most infinitesimal thing . . . you're apt to lose out in gaiety and the accomplishment of things nearest and dearest to your heart and aims . . . unless you take steps to recharge your energies and soothe your nerves and feel the same, vital you that your friends envy and admire!

Our suggestion is incredibly simple. It might be a long cruise, it might be a gorgeous new wardrobe, including the maddest hats in town. But it isn't. It's a series of the most wonderful bubble baths and heavenly massage treatments . . . all devised skillfully for a healthful recuperation of energies and calmed nerves, and a beautiful sylphide figure as well!

With it goes free figure consultation . . . and the same pampering body treatment routines you'll get in plushier and more expensive salons . . . all supervised with exquisite, knowing care to suit you, and not your next door neighbor!

The whole routine stimulates the tissues so when you finish a series (or you may try single treatments, and then you'll be a confirmed addict!) your skin will be clearer and finer, for all extraneous waste matter has been ejected through the pores. You'll revel in the summer menthol-bubbles of the beauty bath, which literally laves away under a constant flow of the milk bath (menthol atop it for heavenly rest and refreshment) many superfluous pounds are eliminated. And when you finish, a glorious complimentary make-up sends you off looking brand new, and glowingly alive!

A single treatment is $3.50, but the buy is a course of six for $15.

If you'd like to learn all about this remarkable body-recontouring treatment . . . including new and exclusive bath methods and preparations, massage, cabinets, exercises, all devised to fit your particular needs, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays until 5:30, except Saturday, or write, inclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Tuesday, June 11

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—Sensitive, active, imaginative. Could be a clever writer, especially of fiction and material that covers the unusual, in fact or fancy. You grasp situations quickly; have excellent faculty for judging values in large quantities and in complicated affairs. You need religion, healthy outdoor exercises and congenial, high minded companions. Have talent for music, but probably not the patience to be a teacher. Keep courage and faith your constant friends.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 91.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is rose.

Send 18 cents and large self-addressed, stamped envelope to Frances Drake, Boston American, Box 2228, Boston, for an individual horoscope, personal guide and lucky calendar for the first six months of 1940, giving the day and month you were born.

Rules for Good Biscuits

By MARTHA LEE

Biscuits are not only prime husband-pleasers but they top the cobbler, extend the stew, appear with fruit and nuts inside or be served for breakfast as well as afternoon coffee. Biscuits are various, biscuits are boons. And here are a few rules for the bride to remember.

Always sift the flour before measuring and sift the baking powder with the dry ingredients to insure thorough mixing; add the liquid to the dry ingredients—it makes a smoother mixture; make the dough soft—so soft as to be almost sticky; handle the biscuits very slightly, as too much manipulation destroys their lightness; bake them in a quick oven.

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
4 tbsp. shortening
⅝ cup milk (about)

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or with two knives until the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Stir in milk to make a smooth dough. Turn out on slightly floured board, knead ½ minute, and roll lightly to thickness of ½ inch. Cut in 2-inch rounds with floured cutter. Bake on ungreased sheet in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 14 to 16 biscuits.

DATE-NUT TEA BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
4 tbsp. shortening
⅝ cup milk
Melted butter
Snappy cheese
14 chopped dates
8 chopped Brazil nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with 2 knives or pastry blender until shortening is consistency of coarse cornmeal. Stir in milk, sufficient to make a dough that is soft but not sticky. Roll out on floured board to ¼-inch thickness and cut with large biscuit cutter. Spread tops with melted butter, then on half of each round, sprinkle a little grated snappy cheese, chopped dates and chopped nuts. Season slightly with salt and paprika. Fold second half over top, pocketbook fashion, press edges together. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 12 to 14.

BRAN BISCUITS

½ cup all-bran
¾ cup buttermilk
1½ cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. soda
⅓ cup shortening
1 tbsp. soft butter
½ cup brown sugar

Soak all-bran in buttermilk. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and soda together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse cornmeal. Add soaked all-bran; stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn onto floured board, kneed lightly a few seconds; roll dough into an oblong about ¼ inch thick. Spread with 1 tbsp. soft butter and sprinkle with ½ cup brown sugar. Roll up like a jelly roll; cut into 1-inch slices. Place slices cut side down close together in greased baking pan. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) about 12 minutes. Makes 12 biscuits (2½ inches in diameter).

Love And Marriage

He No Longer Loves Fiancee

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Four years ago I began going steady with a girl who is just one year my junior. We were very devoted to each other and saw each other every evening.

Then I accepted a chance to be transferred to a larger city at a very good salary. I fell in love with a girl who works in the same building with me. Of course I haven't told my girl back home, but I think a break is necessary, and I want to tell her in a gentlemanly way that I have ceased to care enough for her to marry. I'm only 22 and want to enjoy myself before settling down.

JUNIOR.

I'm afraid there isn't any painless way you can tell this girl you've been enjoying yourself with other girls.

Going "steady," I find, means different things to different people. A positive engagement, sometimes, again, it's a temporary "best girl" arrangement. If you weren't engaged to this back-home girl you can drop off gradually in your letter-writing and I'm sure she will understand. However, if you were really engaged, you'll have to tell her in a straight onward, manly way that you find you were mistaken in your feelings.

For gracious' sake, my dear boy, don't become engaged to any girl, at present. You're only 22, a divine age at which all girls are fascinating. Wait a bit longer.

'SAFARI' COMES TO MET'S SCREEN THURSDAY

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., and Madeleine Carroll headline the cast of "Safari," opening Thursday at the Metropolitan. The production abounds in jungle thrills.

Hub Favorites In Film's Cast

"Safari"—pronounced "SUFFerr-ee," according to Webster's and Funk and Wagnall's dictionaries—will bring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Madeleine Carroll and a noteworthy supporting cast to Metropolitan screen when it premieres here on Thursday.

Partnered with it on the Met's new bill will be "Those Were the Days," also a Paramount production, which is based on George Fitch's popular "Siwash" stories, with Ezra Stone, William Holden and Bonita Granville.

Other members of Paramount's "safari" are four Hub favorites—beautiful Muriel Angelus and handsome Tullio Carminati, both of whom appeared here recently in stage productions; Lynne Overman, who can make even the most unpalatable screen fare acceptable, and the generously upholstered screen comedian, Billy Gilbert.

Miss Carroll plays a lovely if frankly designing woman who pits Fairbanks, a devil-may-care adventurer, and Carminati, a wealthy baron, against each other to win a proposal from the latter.

The major part of the action takes place in an African jungle.

Hollywood Paragraphs

By HARRIET PARSONS

Pinch-Hitting for Louella O. Parsons, Who Is on Vacation

HOLLYWOOD, June 11—Cotton, Cotton, who's got Joe Cotton? The lad who played the lead opposite Katharine Hepburn in her hit play, "Philadelphia Story," arrived in Hollywood Saturday and seems to be the most sought after young actor in town.

Garson Kanin would have given him the second lead in "They Knew What They Wanted" if Orson Welles hadn't claimed priority rights. Welles pleaded that he'd written his entire picture "Citizen Kane" with Cotton in mind and needed him for the top spot.

Now, I understand Arthur Hornblow wants Cotton for Colbert's "Arise My Love," Joe Pasternak wants him for Dietrich's "Seven Sinners" and George Cukor wants him for the film version of Philadelphia Story." Hmm! I must take a look at this young feller.

* * *

Heard and overheard: Helen Gilbert will be borrowed from MGM for that lead opposite Alan Jones in his Paramount picture, "There's Magic in Music" . . . Cesar Romero's illness has been diagnosed. He's definitely out of the cast of "Down Argentine Way."

Grace George Booked For Marblehead

Grace George will be the guest star with the North Shore Players, Marblehead, the week of Aug. 12, appearing in her melodramatic success, "Kind Lady."

Pops Program

Hazel Hallett will be the piano soloist at the Pop concert in Symphony Hall tonight. Arthur Fiedler announces the following program:

Mirche Militaire . . . Schubert
Minuet of the Will-o'-the-Wisps, from "The Damnation of Faust" . . . Berlioz
Children's Suite . . . Mussorgski
Carol performances in Basket
Finale
Overture to "Tannhauser" . . . Wagner
Piano Concerto No. 1, in E flat . . . Liszt
Soloist: Hazel Hallett
"Tales from the Vienna Woods" . . . Strauss
Waltzes
From the Beguine . . . Porter
"Semper Fidelis," March . . . Sousa

"Boogie Woogie' Big Hit at Globe

It's a veritable feast for the swing fan, jitter-bug and jive artist this week at the Globe Theater where the management is terminating a successful stage show season with the presentation of a topnotch all-colored revue, "Boogie Woogie," starring the popular Fess Williams and his 14-piece band. The two-hour revue is a combination jam, jive and humor session.

Flag Epic on Loew's Screens

"The Flag Speaks," Metro Goldwyn-Mayer's two-reel technicolor motion picture dramatizing the history of the American flag and the ideals it represents, will be an added attraction on the Loew's State and Orpheum screen program, starting Thursday.

The showing of this patriotic film will fittingly observe Flag Day on Friday.

The short subject is the new program starting Thursday with the "The Mortal Storm" continuing.

Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, and "Phantom Raiders" with Walter Pidgeon and Florence Rice.

Jungle Thrills

The Gayety Theater's screen feature, "Kidnaping Grandma," is the fast-moving story of wealth and fast living set to a jungle background. It shows close-ups of wild animals in the jungle depths and also offers plenty of thrills for the human adventurer.

A Policeman's Lot

By Steven Williams

TERRENCE McGRAW was a playful but highly respected New York city policeman. Tall, youthful, handsome, he might have been another Phil Regan but for the fact that he could not sing.

On the morning in question Terry McGraw was not concerned with matters which make one personable. He was contemplating Time, or more exactly, an indicator of time, to wit: a grandfather's clock.

For months Terry had walked his beat with his nerves more ragged than his sergeant's sleeves. And all because of this timepeace which owed its inception into the McGraw household to Terry's mother-in-law, Mrs. John Joseph O'Halleran, wife of the late police private, John Joseph O'Halleran, who presented the great clock to his daughter, Cathleen, when she wed Terry.

Now, let it be known that this was no common grandfather's clock, in that it lacked the soothing tones that a hard-working policeman would prefer in his house. Instead, it emitted a sour "Bong" that invariably got messed up with lesser bongs when bidding farewell to and welcoming an hour.

It was this that aggravated Terrence, vinegarizing his elsewise tender disposition. For example, just when he'd gotten settled of an evening to pouring through a civil service manual (lieutenant's or sergeant's exam: $1.20 per copy) that hourglass of brass would let go!

There was little to do at such times but wince, ignore civil service literature and clasp hands over ears until the monster ceased firing—about five minutes later.

In addition, sudden jolts following long periods of stillness in the house would cuff the chimes into untimely serenades. Many times when Terrence returned home late after meetings of his club the timepiece would clang out an hour, any old hour—thus giving Cathleen a tip-off. And there would follow a lecture pertaining to the fact that New York city policemen should not keep late hours when they are on early tour the next day.

And, last: The chimes often woke him up much too early. This was bad. For he would turn over amid certain assertions in connection with improperly born clocks and return to the embrace of Morpheus. This interruption, however brief, would always make it necessary for extra time amidsheet; at the exchange of half an hour for each minute lost—for this was Terrence McGraw.

The ultimate result was often so vicious that numerous citizens were bowled over as Terry rounded corners and charged up streets in order to arrive at the Precinct in time to avoid the narrow leers of Sergeant Rosenthal whose disciplinary borderline was ever graced by Officer McGraw for harmless but annoying pranks in magistrate's courts.

THE ULTIMATUM

There came a day when Sergt. Rosenthal beckoned Terry from the sidewalk formation and passed to him a few remarks anent punctuality. This monologue wound up with a resolution: The clock must go. It was all the clock's fault, wasn't it?

And so that very night Terrence McGrew squarely faced Mrs. O'Halleran and declared that the grandfather clock must go. The ensuing two-way broadcast in no way dimmed Terry's determination.

On schedule the following morning, our hero strode from his house, both arms wrapped about the master of de-rhythm. Terry was clad in civilian togs for he was to go on the night tour. A taxicab bore Terry and clock three miles downtown and stopped before the shabby pawn emporium of Al, the municipal uncle.

Inside, Terry observed an army of cast-off violins, mandolins, ice skates, cameras, dresser sets and relative articles, including shotguns that would shoot around any corner you can name, all of which seemed an excellent fraternity for the big clock to join.

Terry parked the load within view of his friend, Al, and said, "Well, Al, what is it worth?"

The sleepy-eyed proprietor quickly but thoroughly diagnosed this article, with his keen optical stethescope. He tapped it with his red knuckles, but stood back for fear that it might shatter. He shrugged his shoulders, presented arms and wheezed, "What is it worth, you ask me? Nothing. Completely and absolutely nothing! But for you, my beloved friend and policeman, all right, Two dollars."

"S——" Terry began.

He was about to say "Sold." But just then the door burst open and in marched three gentlemen, individually equipped with "iron."

"Awright," announced one, "I do not wish to hear no complaints. This is a stick-up!"

Terry's hands went up. Al had slipped behind his counter but now he reappeared gradually under the encouragement of one of the intruders.

A fine kettle of fish, was Terry's private opinion. Here he was, a New York City policeman with a perfectly effective .38 in his hippocket, being stuck by three rats. And all because of his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. J. O'Halleran and that ——— and ——— clock!

THE LAST STRAW

Well, said his mind to his mouth, this was the finish. Cops do not allow themselves to get stuck up thus. And, above all, Terrence McGraw was a New York City policeman, as noted above.

It was a narrow choice: get these punks or get a bullet trying. Terry began to lower his right hand. He would get it down to shoulder level and then throw it at the nearest gunman. At or about the same time he would whip out his service artillery, with which, if he got that far, he would take pot-shots at the remaining pair of guests and—come what may; he'd already kissed the Blarney.

The two gentlemen aides now were busily engaged in filling a burlap receptacle with watches, trinkets, rings and cash and nobody seemed to notice that at this point Terry's right hand was cocked at his shoulder. Slowly he tightened his fist and . . .

"Bong!" boomed the grandfather's clock. "Bong! Bong! Bahahng!"

"What is dat?" the leader asked, moving back like a Bowery Nijinsky. "Stop dat ting, somebody! Dey kin hear it in de street! Cut it out or somebody will get hoit"

"BR-R-R-RONG! N YAHNG! CLONG!"

"Throw dat thing out!" cried rat No. 1. "De bulls will hear it! throw it out!"

The clock answered in tones that echoed throughout the store, bouncing off walls like a rubber ball. Soon, it sounded like a dozen authentic Bens rehearsing a chorus.

The head man went wild. He almost cried. He waved his revolver as if trying to point at a hole through which he could slip to escape the unscheduled opera. The other two called off their collection tour and joined their chief in distress.

A broad, Irish grin was on Terrence McGraw's ruddy face as he produced his death spitting question mark of steel (regulation NYC PD). One of the crooks pointed his gun at Terry, however, and a blast followed and the last thing that crook ever did was fall in a heap.

The two surviving gunmen promptly and without any persuasion shook their guns loose from their trembling hands and surrendered meekly to Officer McGraw's instructions that they relax on the floor and act like men are supposed to act when they are lying on the floor while another man is standing over them keeping them covered, particularly if the other man is a New York City policeman.

By this time the constabulary assigned to nearby beats had been confidently tipped off to a shot and other strange sounds which came from Al's pawn shoppe; and a substantial portion of radio cars came to a halt outside.

From one of the cars leaped Sergt. Rosenthal who was the first one to observe the spectacle of three holdup men lying on the floor, only two-thirds of them enjoying the beauties of respiration, and Patrolman Terrence McGraw standing there, gun in hand, smiling, while Al was brushing off Terry's coat which did not need brushing.

A HERO CLOCK

"All right," men, barked the sergeant. "Clean this up. Call Bellevue! Get a wagon! Call up the papers. Get moving. He turned to McGraw. "Patrolman McGraw," he said, no less severely, "did you do this alone?"

"Yes," answered Terry. "Yes, I mean, no. That is, not exactly quite alone. You see, I was here and so were you . . . I mean, I did it but could not of done so without the help of this old grandfather's clock you see here. You see, sarge, about 30 years ago, my wife's grandfather gave this clock to my wife's father. You remember him, John Joseph O'Halleran? Well, then when Cathleen and me . . . when we . . ."

"All right, McGraw, all right. Forget it. I didn't mean to ask any questions. Now, if you don't mind, will you be good enough to make out a report?"

Terry did and when his uniformed brethren had departed Al looked up at our young hero and said, "So now, commissioner, where was we? Oh, yes. You was saying . . . how much did you expect to get on this clock?"

Terry answered by placing a resounding kiss on the clock's face.

"Bong!" went the timepiece in gratitude.

By the time he arrived home with his now beloved teller of hours, the early editions were making front page according to the police announcements as to just what happened in Al's shoppe.

And now, everybody is happy. Al's business has picked up due to the publicity; Terry won the "$100 Hero Award" and is now a third-grade detective, and the grandfather's clock stands austerely outside the McGraws' bedroom door. And every time it bongs, Terrence smiles. Even in his sleep.

THE END.

Don't miss tomorrow's amusing story about a private secretary who became a wife.

AUSTEN LAKE

Case of Lou Boudreau Vs. College Hypocrisy

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! The case of College baseball vs. the Major leagues is before the people's tribunal. The question—"Shall professional clubs support, subsidize or tamper with varsity kids during their student period?"

AUSTEN LAKE

Exhibit A for the major leagues—Louis Boudreau, University of Illinois '38 and current prize shortstop of the Cleveland Indians.

Case history—Two years ago Illinois discovered that young Boudreau's mother was receiving monthly checks of $100 from the Cleveland Indians to be applied against her son's tuition and expenses. Not for Cleveland's love of the kid, mind you, but because Boudreau was a rubber-armed shortstop with a pretty brown batting eye! So, as a righteous member of the Big 10 Conference, Illinois thumbed through his amateur code book and found a rule reading, "No varsity player may receive money or emoluments for athletic serviues from any persons or agency during the interim of his college course."

Illinois strummed its lip! True, Boudreau had not rendered any services for Cleveland's monthly $100, except a verbal promise to accept a Cleveland contract after graduation. Was this professionalism? The college athletic council said, "No!" But the Big 10 said "Yes!" So Louis was banned from college baseball.

⁂

Colleges Are Scandalized

THE GENERAL PROBLEM—Today in a hundred colleges around the land boy ball players are under a gentleman's agreement with major league scouts—hundreds of them! The clubs pay the lad's tuition, his keep and incidental costs—sometimes more, sometimes less, according to the boy's shrewdness in driving a bargain. The clubs have been doing it for years in the hope that a few of the kids will grow into something adult and useful. A few—a pitifully small percentage do! And the rest, at an average outlay of $3000 each, are charged off as flops. The Red Sox have a flock of such student pensionnaires and add annually others to the list. Virtually every major league team, and many minor ones, are cash-papas to such fledglings.

The College complaint—While a minority of schools do not frown on this practice (Ed Note—Neither do I), many of the large institutions lift horrified eyes to heaven, scandalized that they are being used to fatten youth for professional sport. Their attitude is that cultured persons should find more suitable employment; that pay-for-play is a sin against amateurism; that a college boy on a professional payroll is contaminating to his brethren.

The college kid's argument is, "I couldn't have gone to college without outside help," said Boudreau today. "If the Cleveland club hadn't given me a lift, I'd have had to work at some low-paid, unskilled job and wound up hating the work and being a social bust. I wasn't ready for professional ball, but Cleveland took a chance. And almost every other college athlete on a major league payroll is in the same predicament. What's sinister about it?"

(Ed note—Today Boudreau is hitting on the sunny side of .300, fielding his position as a veteran, and drawing a wage of $6500. Take a gander at him against the Red Sox this p. m.)

⁂

THE MAJOR LEAGUE'S THEORY—If a professional team wishes to play angel to a lot of clean, likely college boys, whose concern is it whether the money comes from the club treasury or from the parental sock? Who gets harmed? The boy gets a free education and the prospect of a job! His parents have the load lifted from their necks! The college gets its money on the line! The public gets a dollar's worth of fun! Everybody benefits!

The humanitarian aspect—Since collegiate brass hats first formulated their amateur code which made an athletic outcast of any boy who earned a baseball dollar, conditions in the National job market have changed. Today annual crops of school and college youth—lads who have been exploited on varsity fields, are passing into a workaday world where old opportunities are scarce and a college degree no magic key to success.

There's a fine old hypocrisy there! For the college's one obligation is to prepare youth for later usefulness according to its individual talent. And today many big industrial concerns like duPont de Nemours, General Electric, Ford, General Motors, etc., support gifted kids through their college life with the notion that their genius will join the organizations after graduation. Also Rockefeller and Guggenheim Foundations furnish funds to impecunious youngsters for studies which range from research in Chlorophyll (the mystery of Nature's growing greens) to Egyptology. That's O. K. in collegiate eyes! But let a boy find an abnormal knack for busting a baseball or whipping it across the diamond and let some major league sponsor allot him a sum to develop his skill. That's an outrage against the sanctified amateur code!

At this moment I know the names of a dozen college ball players who are receiving major league subsidies. Their names? O no! Some fusty college council would snatch them by the slack of their pants and set them down for the duration of their courses. It's a lot of outmoded hunk and the sooner some college brain moves to let its baseball kids earn honest dollars instead of hiding their income under a cloak of sin, the sooner our institutions will remove an archaic foolishness and do themselves and athletic youth a favor.

SOX MUST BEAT FELLER TO HOLD TOP OF LEAGUE

By BILL GRIMES

Due to yesterday's washout, Manager Oscar Vitt believes he's sitting pretty and that his Cleveland Indians will be in full possession of first place in the American League when they leave town tomorrow night.

Manager Vitt will send Fireball Bob Feller against the Red Sox this afternoon and he'll come back with Al Milnar tomorrow.

On his last time out, Bob Feller was beaten by the New York Yankees, 5 to 4.

In all probability, Bob Feller will not be in pleasant frame of mind this afternoon. During the Yankee game last Friday in New York, Twinkle Toes Selkirk stole home while he was taking his windup and then to add injury to insult, the world champions tied up and won the game in the 9th.

SOX AT FULL STRENGTH

Black Jack Wilson will oppose Feller, which means that it will be a battle between a couple of speed ball hurlers.

The Red Sox will be at war strength for the first time in almost a week. Bobby Doerr, who had been out with a bad leg, will be back and will lead off, while Lou Finney, who has completely recovered from a heavy cold, will be in right field and bat in the No. 3 spot.

⁂

Owner Tom Yawkey returned to New York yesterday afternoon . . . He was to have flown but all planes were grounded, so he took the Merchants' Limited . . . Marse Tom will rejoin the Red Sox in Chicago on Friday . . . Although it was raining heavily when yesterday's game was called, Herbie Hash, Teddy Williams, Denny Galehouse and Tim Daly worked out . . . With the exception of Bob Feller, none of the Indians reported at Fenway Park . . . Bob jogged and ran around the park for almost an hour and then Trainer Wiseman gave him a going over . . .

For seven weeks, Slats Spence has had an open sore on his ankle . . . He was spiked and the stitches pulled out . . . Apparently, Jap Eyes is the old time type of ball player, for despite his injury he has been in the line up . . . If Spence had allowed himself to be benched, he'd still be with Louisville . . . Herb Hash's knee is improving but like Spence he is carrying around an open sore, in fact he has two . . . After he had treated Spence and Hash, Trainer Win Green put a T bandage on Bobby Doerr's thigh . . . Manager Joe Cronin is still bothered by a sore instep . . . He bounced a foul ball off his instep last Friday during batting practise and his dog has been barking ever since . . .

⁂

Robert Moses Grove is like Jesse Guilford . . . If you ask him a question, he'll tell you what he thinks, not what you'd like to hear. . . . He never pulls his punches and he has never attempted to soft soap anyone . . . So, when you meet him and he starts to rave over the gifts he received last Saturday, don't get the impression that he's laying it on to make you or anyone else feel good . . . He's speaking right from his heart . . . And, every statement that he makes—and, he's making plenty—is exactly what he believes.

Lefty practically wore out Tom Kenney yesterday showing his trophies to the visitors to the press room at Fenway Park . . . He's like a kid with some new toys . . . The plaque which the Red Sox presented to him made the greatest impression on Lefty . . . Unless I'd

NOW FOR NUMBER NINE—Bob Feller was brimming with confidence this morning when he dressed for breakfast before heading for Fenway and his scheduled hill appearance against the Red Sox this afternoon. Feller expected to win his ninth game of the year and send the Indians out in front in the A. L. flag race. Greater than ever, he's one of the chief reasons many folks favor the Cleveland entry to take the flag.

Stengel Sends Errickson to Hill In Attempt to Give Cellar to Cards

ST. LOUIS, June 11—Bees take their third crack at night ball when they stack up against the Cards here tonight in the final game of their present mid-western jaunt.

This affair under the arcs is being greetted in no pleasant manner by Manager Casey Stengel who feels that the Swarm just can't play night ball.

ERRICKSON UNDEFEATED

Three weeks ago they fell before the Giants 8 to 1, and last Tuesday night the Pirates shellacked the Stengelmen, 14 to 2. In these two games the Bees seemed unable to hit under the artificial light and their fielding in both games was very erratic.

Stengel is hoping that with these two games behind his club as experience, the boys may do better tonight and is sending Dick Errickson who has yet to suffer his first defeat in three official starts to the hill.

The Cards will counter with Bob Bowman in hopes of staying out of the cellar.

By snapping out of their losing streak which had extended through six straight games until yesterday, the Swarm came to life with a jolt and really hammered the Cardinals 12 to 2 to go into a virtual tie with the Redbirds for seventh place.

Although the Bees are a few percentage points behind they have won two less and lost two less than the Cards.

CUCCINELLO ON BENCH

Continuing his methods of shaking up his club searching for a winning combination, Stengel really came up with one yesterday.

Million Dollar Grid Gate Gone!

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 11 (AP)—Ogden D. Miller, Yale's newly appointed chairman of the board of athletic control, will also assume the duties of director of athletics at the university when he takes over the post officially July 1.

The board decided at a meeting last night, however, that the title of chairman would cover both positions.

Malcolm Farmer, who was succeeded by Prof. Clarence W. Mendell in an acting capacity after he resigned January 1 last, held the title of director of athletics as well as that of chairman of the board.

Miller, in his first interview since his appointment was announced Sunday, said yesterday that he believed "the day of the million dollar gate in football is gone."

He asserted too that while it was his opinion that professional football and other factors would not eventually relegate the intercollegiate sport to the relatively minor position now held by college baseball, "we ought to study trends and be ready to scale down if necessary."

Dodgers Regain Top By Nipping Pirates; Nats Bow to Browns

PITTSBURGH, June 10 (INS)—Babe Phelps tripled in the eighth inning to score Ernie Koy with the decisive run as Brooklyn turned back the Pirates, 8 to 7.

The victory moved Brooklyn out front in the National League by one percentage point over idle Cincinnati.

Hamlin, Kimball, Casey, Pressnell and Fred Fitzsimmons hurled for the Dodgers, with Fitzsimmons, who entered the game in the seventh, receiving credit for the 197th victory of his career.

Pittsburgh tied the score with a four-run rally in the seventh inning, but the Dodgers won when pinch-hitter Koy singled and was driven home by Phelps.

Dick Lanahan, fourth of five Pirate pitchers, was the loser.

Browns Beat Nats, 7-4, Aided by Two Errors

WASHINGTON, June 11 (INS)—Two Senator errors helped St. Louis gain a 7 to 4 triumph with two runs in the first inning and five in the seventh.

St. Louis filled the bases when Sid Hudson lost control in the first frame. Walter Judnich's single accounted for two tallies. Three hits, a pass and two Washington errors enabled the Browns to tally five times in the seventh.

The Senators knocked out Jack Kramer with five hits and four runs in their half of the seventh but he received credit for the victory.

OLIVER GOT RAW DEAL

And only two weeks ago Lawson Little was telling Boston pals he was as lusty as a tin dipper . . . According to the Associated Press, Fordham and Tennessee are about together on a football date for 1941 . . . consensus in the pubs around here is that the U. S. G. A. brass hats gave Ed Oliver a raw deal, particularly since Walter Hagen violated the same rule and got away with it.

Wesley Wallace, the middle distance runner who graduates from Fordham today, is going to Pittsburgh to learn the steel biz. He plans to run one more year, commuting between Pittsburgh and the big town . . . When the Admiral Richard E. Byrd Handicap is run at Hollywood Park next month it will be broadcast to Little America.

Connie Mack's elder brother, Mike McGilheuddy, 84, keeps the customers in line at the Shibe Park ticket windows . . .

Charlestown To See 2 Races On June 17th

Charlestown will celebrate Bunker Hill Day, June 17, with two road races.

One race will be the annual 10-miler from Stoneham sq. to the Y. M. C. A. at City sq., Charlestown, while the other race, to be run for the first time, is over the three mile route through the streets of Charlestown.

The former event is open only to registered runners while the latter is open to all the novice runners of Charlestown.

The Stoneham-Charlestown is drawing all the leading marathoners of New England headed by the veteran of them all Clarence De Mar.

Johnny Kelley, Leslie Pawson and Tarzan Brown, all winners of the B. A. A. Patriots' Day Marathon, have signified their intentions of running.

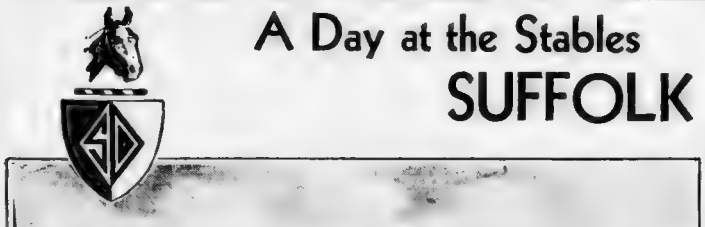
HUSKIES WILL RULE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 11 (AP)—Washington's oarsmen were due here today for a final week of preparation for the intercollegiate regatta next Tuesday. And the chances are that even if the Huskies don't win Washington still will be the ruling power in the row-ing world.

For two of the eastern contenders for the intercollegiate title—Cornell and Princeton—are coached by Washington graduates. So are Yale and Harvard which don't row at Poughkeepsie and some others. The consensus hereabouts is that if anyone beats the Huskies this year it will be Cornell.

Under the guidance of Harrison Sanford and Norman Sought both Washington Alumni, Coached crews become about the most potent rowing power in the East. The big Red eight was fourth at last year's record-smashing varsity race then won the Eastern "sprint" championship hands down this spring.

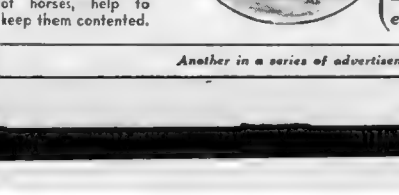
A Day at the Stables
SUFFOLK DOWNS



The stables are an important part of the Suffolk Downs plant. Quarters are kept scrupulously clean, with frequent change of bedding and proper airing. Mr. or Mrs. Thoroughbred's light, cool, airy apartment is as fine as any in America.

Part of the tremendous stable area.

"Cooling-out" after a morning work.



The Suffolk village smithy . . . a mighty (important) man is he. Some of the many mascots, beloved pals of horses, help to keep them contented.

PENNANT GRIND KEEPS LEADERS TIED IN 2 LOOPS

By the Associated Press

The major league pennant races are tighter than a new pair of shoes and just as fancy to look at. But they don't seem to be going anywhere.

Brooklyn's baffling Dodgers pushed past Pittsburgh, 8-7, yesterday and into first place in the percentage standings of the senior circuit by a single point. They have won 29 games and lost 13 for .690. Cincinnati, which was idle yesterday, has won 31 games and lost 14 for a .689 percentage.

The National League struggle today is right back in the complicated spot it got into on May 27, which isn't getting along very fast toward the business of determining a champion.

What's more, the Reds still are half a game in front on won-lost reckoning. This is the tangle these same clubs were in a couple of weeks ago.

BOX HOLD SLIM EDGE

The American League squabble is nearly as bad, the Red Sox holding only a small percentage margin over the Indians with whom they are even in games won and lost. Detroit is only a single game behind and the fourth place Yankees three.

The status quo of the junior circuit leaders was preserved by the weatherman yesterday. In the only game that was played St. Louis spanked the Senators 7-4 and moved into sixth place in the standings.

Each team made 10 hits, but the Senators committed two errors behind Sid Hudson. The Browns bunched two runs in the first and five more in the seventh, after which the four Washington crowded into the last of the seventh were a small threat.

The two games played in the National League were hitting exhibitions. In the Brooklyn-Pittsburgh melee 17 players saw service for each team, five pitchers and two catchers included for each.

HEAVY HITTING

The Dodgers opened with three runs and the Pirates came back with three in the second. Brooklyn had two two-run innings thereafter and Pittsburgh clustered four runs in one. But it finally Babe Phelps tripled with one on in the eighth for the payoff.

There were 25 hits in this game and 23 in the one at St. Louis in which the Bees crushed the Cardinals 12-2. The difference was that the Bees owned 21 of the total of 24 while Lefty oJe Sullivan kept the Redbirds effectively caged. One of the seven hits he gave up was the 17th home run of the year for Johnny Mize.

Billy Southworth was present at the game, but let Coach Mike Gonzales run the Cards, saying he would take charge at the night game tonight.

March, Father Of Pro Football, Dies in Ohio

CANTON, O., June 11 (AP)—The man credited with fathering professional football and who gave Jim Thorpe his chance is dead.

He is Dr. Harry A. March, a physician, organizer of the New York Giants and the Canton Bulldogs pro teams and one-time head of the National Pro Football League.

It was with the Canton team that Thorpe, Carlisle Indian, gained some of his fame.

Dr. March's death last night followed a long illness.

HE DID RELIABLE RACER

By the Associated Press

In a division which lacks consistency more than anything else, Arnold Hanger's He Did is becoming notable for his ability to run at his regular form in the lesser eastern handicap events.

He won his fourth straight yesterday by galloping away from four rivals in the $5000 added Queens County Handicap at Aqueduct's opening. H. F. Guggenheim's War Dog headed Maxwell Howard's unreliable stepper, The Chief, for second place four lengths behind the winner.

Honey Cloud and Great Union brought up in the rear while Fighting Fox, another horse that seems to run only when he feels like it, was among the six scratched.

Shouse Plans Suffolk Bid

(By the Associated Press)

Somewhat the worse for wear, Charles S. Howard's stars, Kayak 2nd and Mioland, have returned to Hollywood Park from their Eastern trip.

Trainer Tom Smith hopes to get them both into condition for their major summer engagements, the $50,000 Hollywood Gold Cup July 27 for Kayak and the $25,000 Hollywood Derby July 20 for Mioland. There is considerable doubt whether either can be made ready in time.

For the second straight year Jouett Shouse, Washington, D. C., sportsman, may furnish the winner of next Saturday's Betsy Ross Stakes for two-year-old fillies at Suffolk Downs.

Shouse said yesterday that Ballarosa, third in Delaware Park's Polly Drummond Stakes last Saturday, would be shipped to East Boston some time this week. Shouse won the Betsy Ross last year with Arden Lass.

P. O. BOX 1111. BOSTON, MASS.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

OSCAR VITT, manager of the Cleveland Indians, is still at a loss to understand how the Red Sox manage to cling to first place as his Indians prepared to open a series with Joe Cronin's club.

OSCAR VITT

"I still believe the Red Sox are a lucky ball club," said Vitt. "The Sox lack pitching, and it is a wonder to me how they have done as well as they have this season.

"I have my eyes on the Yanks and Detroit. The Yanks have snapped out of their spring slump, and are getting a few breaks. The champions have a batting punch, pretty good pitching and strength behind the bat. My Indians may have to fight it out with the Yanks for the pennant."

Vitt believes that the Tigers are a threat to any team with pennant hopes. He has been particularly impressed by the playing of Detroit in recent games.

The records support Vitt in his statement about the Red Sox. The Sox have only won three out of nine games since they returned home. The team has blown wide open at times, and it will have to rally stoutly if it is to continue to battle it out with the Yanks, Indians and Tigers for the right to lead the American League.

With a long list of doubleheaders scheduled, the wobbly Red Sox pitching staff will be faced by its most severe test.

* * *

Lou Finney Gets Full Recognition

JOE CRONIN recognizes the desperate position his club is in, and has shaken up his batting order in an effort to turn back the thrusts of rival clubs.

Lou Finney, the $10,000 utility player who has developed into a $75,000 star, has been placed in third position in the batting order. Finney's hitting has been sensational this year, and it is the opinion of Cronin that Lou will show to better advantage in the No. 3 spot in the lineup.

Bobby Doerr will be the leadoff man with Doc Cramer in second position, Jimmy Foxx in the No. 4 cleanup spot. Ted Williams fifth, Cronin sixth, Tabor seventh and then the battery.

Williams batted after Foxx for a time last season, but got discouraged watching Double X knock the ball over the fence, and as a result was moved above Foxx. Cronin took the position in the batting order following Foxx.

Despite all of his alleged shortcomings, Williams has been hitting well this season. The Finney, Foxx, Williams combination should give the Sox a better batting punch.

In dropping himself to sixth place in the batting order, Cronin recognized the fact his hitting has not been up to par this season. Joe is more interested in winning ball games than he is in occupying a position in the batting order where he cannot be as effective as some other player.

Cleveland Players Rate Yanks Highly

TALK TO THE Cleveland players, and you will find they believe the Yanks are the team they will have to beat if they are to win the pennant. They consider the Tigers dangerous, but they do not believe the Detroit club has the strength possessed by the world's champions.

I am still sold on the thought that the Yanks are the class of the American League, and that in the final run through the stretch they will be looking back over their shoulder at the Red Sox, Indians and Tigers. It is silly to believe that a great ball club like the Yanks would fold up over night. The team has too much class to fail to get into the final pennant drive.

It would be different if the Yanks were composed of old players. There are numerous veterans on the club, but Joe McCarthy also has an abundance of youngsters who will furnish the necessary fire as the flag fight heats up.

Cleveland has shown marked improvement this season due chiefly to the splendid leadership of Oscar Vitt. The latter is a thorough student of baseball, and has also furnished the spark that keeps his players on their toes doing their utmost every second they are on the field. The Indians are not content to give a good old college try. They believe that if they keep forcing the issue at all times that clubs like the Yanks and Sox are likely to crack.

If the weather man would show a little consideration, the American League clubs would have an exceptionally successful season from a financial viewpoint. The closeness of the race has got the fans steamed up, and large crowds would turn out to see the leaders in action if the weather man would be a little bit more considerate.

Last year when the Yanks made a runaway race of it other than when temporarily halted by the Red Sox in a five-game New York series, there was a sharp falling-off in attendance figures.

Catch First Tautog At Manomet Point

By DARK MONTREAL

First tautog of the season were brought ashore at Al Tripp's Manomet Point boat station on Saturday—three good fish taken on sea worms; and on Sunday the famous fishing twins, Doc Colson and Harry Packard picked up a nice one.

So a little spell of good weather should get the big fish on the shore ledges of this well known ground.

Big cod and haddock are still being taken off Manomet. The Tripp scales weighed six haddock averaging 6¼ pounds and 125 pounds of good cod taken by three Rhode Island anglers, Emil Wolf E. Hanley and A. Gauvan.

* * *

Laurie Washburn, of Wareham, killed a 10½ pound squiteague off Hog Island, Buzzards Bay, best fish of the first run at the mouth of the canal. Washburn, Phil Hathaway, chairman of the Wareham selectmen, and Ted Bryant, have been taking soi e nice striped bass in this area. Brainard Kenning, of Stoddard's, and I fisher with them early Sunday morning and they showed us some excellent sport. I want to write about these grounds more fully at a later date.

* * *

Also, a little later, and in some detail, I want to report on the experimenting experience of Frank Turner (the Transcript camera ace) and myself night fishing to a new spot in the Buzzards Bay area. We put in a dusk-to-dawn session Friday night, with mosquitoes and an irritating whippoor-will (I used to think their song was beautiful) and we caught fish. Frankie hung one that weighed a little over 11 pounds. Of six others brought to gaff, only one weighed less than eight pounds. I left hooks in three stripers (using too light a leader) and we missed in all perhaps eight or nine strikes. Night fishing has an eerie quality that is part of its attraction and it is destined to be more popular. I don't want to say a word about the fish I hung in the Canal and never did stop.

* * *

State of Maine is entertaining rod and gun editors at the Rangely lakes for three days, starting today, and I'm mighty sorry I couldn't make it. That's one more score I've got against Mussolini.

* * *

Plymouth bay and the waters off the Gurnet are alive with big pollock and from now until July 15 there will be some keen competition for the First Annual Plymouth Pollock Derby is under way. This event is sponsored by Bill Dupree and the captains of all the leading fishing boats out of Plymouth. Teams from at least a dozen cities have already been lined up.

* * *

Ted Litchfield of Marshfield took a 7½-pound striper in North river Sunday, but his was one of a few caught there . . . State Trooper Franklin Billings of Calais, Me., caught a 9½-pound salmon in West Lake, Princeton.

* * *

Anglers who have a yen to mount some of their own best specimens should join the South Shore Fish Mounting Club, which meets every Friday at the home of Lewis Eeholm, 19 Newfield st., Wollaston.

B's Rely on Errickson To Give Cellar to Cards

With Sisti at third base, Rowell at second and Cuccinello on the bench, the Swarm clouted three St. Louis pitchers for 21 hits with their new batting order.

Joe Sullivan who did the tossing for the Bees limited the Cards to six scattered hits.

The Swarm started unimpressively. After a scoreless first inning they picked up a run in the second but the Cards tied it up in their half. Then the Bees went to town. Two walks and three singles netted three runs in the third.

The fourth was scoreless but the Bees came bouncing back in the fifth with four more runs. Ross started matters with a triple and singles by Rowell, Sullivan and Hassett put an end to Curt Davis who started for the Cards. In came Clyde Shoun and Sisti greeted him with a double before the trouble ended.

MIZE HITS 17TH

Manager Billy Southworth came up with Ernie White, a rookie hurler, in the sixth and the Swarm manhandled him for three more runs. They tallied one more in the eighth for good measure.

Meanwhile Joe Sullivan coasted along with very little trouble. His butterfly ball had the heavy hitting Cards baffled all afternoon except for a bad pitch to Johnny Mize which wound up in a four base clout on the roof of the right field pavilion. His seventeenth of the season.

The triumph was the second for the Bees in eleven starts on this second western trip, but they can start home out of the cellar if they come through under lights tonight.

They should if Chet Ross, Buddy Hassett, Bama Rowell, Al Lopez and Sibby Sisti continue their slugging. Hassett led the attack with four singles in four trips to the plate. Rowell had a perfect day with three for three. Ross followed with a triple and three singles in six trips to the bat, while Sisti also clicked for three safe blows, two of them doubles.

Golf Champion Wins Trans-Miss. Medal

ST. LOUIS, June 11 (AP)—Blonde Betty Jameson, the national women's golf champion, was in rare form as she led a field of 135 players through the qualifying round of the 14th trans-Mississippi tourney today.

The 21-year-old San Antonio girl, four-time Texas State champion, fired a sizzling four-under par 73 to nose out Patty Berg of Minneapolis, the defending champion who is trying for her third straight title, for medalist honors. Patty had a pair of 37's for a 74 over the hilly Glen Echo Country Club course.

TYPOS PLAY WINTHROP

The Varsity Club of Winthrop plays the Boston Typos at South Boston Stadium next Sunday, at 2:45 p. m. The Typos have had three arranged games rained out and defeated the Olympic Club of Dorchester, 20-4, in the one game played.

POINT TO CRONIN AS N. L. CASTOFF

CINCINNATI, June 11 (AP) — The front office of the Cincinnati Reds, who are defending and hoping to enlarge upon a national loop championship, reported itself today as somewhat irked by sarcastic comment to the effect the Brooklyn Dodgers are what they are because of an infilteration of American League cast-offs.

The Dodgers are the major immediate obstacles to the Reds' progress. Those who subscribe to the view that the American is the only major loop in the country, point to an impressive lot of ex-American Leaguers and say "that proves it."

"That," said Traveling Secretary Gabe Paul of the Reds, "is a lot of hoop-la."

Gabe picked up the box score in the morning papers and found just as many one-time National League men now were bolstering up one and all teams in the junior circuit.

Among the random discoveries were:

1—(Inevitable) Zeke Bonura, once the New York Giants' problem child, now defending first base with might and main for Washington.

2—Dick Bartell, ex-Chicago Cub, now doing all right at short for Detroit.

3—Rollie Hemsley, ex-Red and reformed playboy of the Western world, catching very well for Cleveland.

4—Mike Kreevich, ex-Chicago Cub, outfielding for the other Chicago team.

5—Roy Cullenbine, not good enough for the Dodgers, but now putting some life in the St. Louis Browns.

There were a dozen others caught in the dragnet through the American League box scores.

"Also, though it's a bit extreme to mention it," Gabe concluded, "there's a fellow named Joe Cronin who couldn't make it at Pittsburgh some years back. I hear he's with the Boston Red Sox now."

Holy Cross Aims for 15th Straight As B. C. Strives to Extend Series

WORCESTER, June 11 — Prevented by inclement weather from playing the second game of their annual diamond series at Newton yesterday, Holy Cross and Boston College were to attempt to get together this afternoon here at Fitton Field.

DICK FERRITER
Waits Shot at Crusaders

After yesterday's postponement Coach Jack Barry indicated that he might use Mike Klarnick, a senior, on the mound in place of George Woods, huge sophomore chucker from New Britain, Ct., who pinned the Eagles 3-0 with a three hit pitching performance the first time the teams met this season at Worcester.

SPLIT FOR LEAHY

In the opposing camp Mentor Fred Maguire, who used to be a Barry pupil here at Mt. St. James in early twenties, was inclined to string along with his original nomination—Fred Leahy, who in two outings against the Purple has an even split.

Leahy clipped the Crusaders in the third and deciding game of the '39 series and lost a close game, in which he allowed but five bingles, to Woods and the Purple on Memorial Day.

Today's contest may be the last of this year's series, particularly if Holy Cross manages to conquer. Victory for Boston College today would in all probability prolong the series to three games, though that hadn't been decided officially today.

If a third game is played Dick Ferriter will pitch for Boston College and he may work today for a few innings.

SEEKS 15TH STRAIGHT

Holy Cross was to go after its 15th straight victory this afternoon. Boston college's fine showing in its was seeking its sixth victory of the season.

On paper Holy Cross was a prime favorite to clinch its first series, but Boston College's fine showing in its last three contests, the 0-3 loss to Holy Cross, and respective 5-4 and 8-3 victories over Seton Hall and Tufts plus some expected classy hurling from senior Leahy gave Eagle rooters high hopes of an upset victory.

Outside of the pitching, both coaches indicated yesterday that their lineups would be the same as have carried their colors to such recent successes.

Install Turnstiles At Wonderland Park

Wonderland, Revere, is installing new 25-cent turnstiles, similar in operation to those used at all the large greyhound and horse tracks. In co-operation with the Massachusetts State Racing Commission, Wonderland this year will eliminate all passes. Patrons will pass through the new turnstiles to enter the track.

The first official schooling races got under way yesterday at the beach track. The early clockings indicated that most of the canine speedsters are in good form and will be in top condition by opening date on June 14.

HARVARD FOUR FACE ARIZONA

Harvard and Arizona are to meet in the first game of the consolation tournament of the National Intercollegiate Outdoor Polo Championships at the Dedham Polo Club this afternoon at 4:30.

Harvard was defeated by Army, 17 to 8, in the opening match at Forbes Field, Westwood, last Saturday, and the University of Arizona was beaten by Princeton, 12-4.

Winner of this afternoon's consolation match will play the loser of Thursday's match between Yale and Pennsylvania Military College in a preliminary contest to the finals at Forbes Field, Saturday afternoon.

Crimson were severely handicapped by successful foul shots in the defeat by the well mounted Army team.

Chiefs Can Claim Canadian Title Even If They Miss Loop Playoffs

By the Associated Press

From the way things are going, it appears highly improbable that the Syracuse Chiefs will get out of the International League's second division this season. But even in they miss the playoffs they probably can claim the championship of Canada.

The Chiefs have played seven times this season in Toronto and Montreal and haven't been beaten yet. Last night's 5-3 victory at Toronto was their fourth in five visits there. One game ended in a 6-6 seven-inning tie.

LOSE AT HOME

They also have won twice at Montreal, but surprisingly have lost four out of six on their home grounds to Montreal's fifth-place club and divided a pair with Toronto.

That sort of inconsistency probably explains why Syracuse only climbed to a virtual tie with Buffalo's beaten Bisons through last night's triumph—and the Chiefs are a good piece behind in the percentages. Buffalo went down 3-1 before the second-place Jersey City Giants in a game cut to five innings by rain. The other four clubs weren't scheduled.

Syracuse, in fact, almost blew its game after leading the cellar-dwellers, 5-0, after five frames. Les Hinckle, making his first appearance as a starting pitcher, breezed along for eight innings then gave three straight hits to start the ninth.

CLEANS BASES

Art Jones put out the fire after Toronto had scored three runs. The Chiefs had belted Vallie Eaves out with three in the fifth.

Jersey City, cutting Rochester's lead to 2½ games, needed just one inning to sew up its game with Buffalo. The Little Giants got only three hits off Floyd Stromme, but Bob Sturgeon opened by beating out a single, Jim Outlaw made an error and Johnny Dickshot was passed and then Mickey Vernon cleared the sacks with a triple. Lefty Roy Henshaw gave the Bisons five hits, fanned seven and wasn't scored upon until the fifth.

BOMBERS SET FIRES IN PARIS

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—National Broadcasting Co. correspondents in Europe reported today that waves of German bombers were flying over Paris and that part of the city itself was burning this morning.

Fred Bate, NBC correspondent in London, said the French embassy there, still in communication with Paris, had confirmed reports that parts of the capital were aflame.

(The Associated Press reported a strange, acrid smoke pall over Paris this morning, believed to be from fire on the outskirts.)

Damage in the suburbs is great, the NBC correspondent reported, and casualties also are believed to be heavy. Many fires, he said, were caused by incendiary bombs. The report said roads out of Paris were thronged with refugees.
